Red cheeks at 18 below

TWIN FALLS — Temperatures plunged to 18 below zero in Twin Falls for the second straight day, with similar readings reported from throughout the Magic Valley.

The brace of 18-below readings was the coldest ever reported this early in December, but fell short of the all-time record for December of 29 below in 1924 or the all-time record of 30 below, set in January, 1922.

Several schools, including Twin Falls high schools in Burley, Gooding, and Valley districts were closed today. The Twin Falls school's heating plant reportedly could not handle the load, with classrooms left too cold for schoolwork.

Roads around the valley remained icy in spots or with broken snow floors.

Power and fuel companies reported peak demand, but no shortages.

Lloyd Graybill, U.S. Weather Bureau, Kimberly, said this is the coldest December on record for the nine years the bureau records have been kept here.

Highs in Twin Falls Sunday reached two degrees. High in Burley was a minus 4 and in Rupert a minus 3, while Buhl had zero and Jerome reached four degrees. Hot spot of the valley was Hagerman with 10 degrees for a high Sunday, Graybill said.

Weather Bureau officials said records were set in Boise with a minus 21 degrees two days in a row. West Yellowstone, Mont., had minus 47 — as cold as ever recorded.

Fairfield had a minus 34; Burley a minus 26; Rupert had a minus 27; Buhl a minus 20 and Ketchum and Hailey each minus 15 degrees. The Ketchum Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest said a minus 20 was recorded Sunday and a maximum of 12 degrees with a minus 14 this morning at 8 a.m.

Temperatures were slightly warmer in higher elevations as Magic Mountain Ski area had an unofficial 5 above while Twin Falls was still several degrees below zero.

Department of Highway officials in Shoshone say all roads are open, but continue icy or with broken snow floors as temperatures are too low to allow thawing and traffic is generally light.

The highway between Gooding and King Hill is listed as bare and dry, however.

Schools closed this morning in the Eden, Hazelton and Valley buildings because heating units could not keep the rooms warm. In Burley, the high school was closed for the same reason, but grade schools were open. Gooding reported a malfunction in the high school heating plant and the high school was closed but other students were in class as usual.

George Staudahe, Twin Falls superintendent, said furnaces were fired to capacity Sunday in an effort to heat all buildings but some classrooms were still cool. At about 10 a.m. today, it was found necessary to close the high school.

Robert Peterson, Intermountain Gas Co. division manager, said there have been no problems meeting heating demands by his firm. He said the interruptible customers who buy gas on a contract which stipulates they will be shut off as needed, have been curtailed. He said this would include the Amalgamated Sugar Co. factories, the hide and tallow plant in Twin Falls and such plants as the potato processing firms in the Burley-Rupert area. This is handled by telemeter out of Boise he said, and he is not certain how many processors in the Burley-Rupert area are involved.

Earl Haroldsen, Idaho Power Co. division manager, said mostly routine problems have been caused with no major power interruptions. The 45,000 volt line, between Jerome and Wendell contracted in the cold temperatures and pulled apart Sunday as did another high voltage line between Gooding and Wendell.

Haroldsen said a large transformer went out in the Murtaugh area Sunday and had to be replaced to keep the fuel oil and gasoline pipeline pump functioning but a new unit was sent from Salt Lake City and repairs were made later in the day to keep the liquid fuels moving at normal speed.

He said maintenance crews worked in sub-zero weather atop power poles in the Gooding, Wendell and Jerome areas Sunday to make repairs.

Chilly 'inferno'

AS IN A SCENE from some 'chillier Dante's 'Inferno,' patrons at the Twin Falls Post Office were cloaked in mist early today as the thermometer began its slow climb from the night's 18-below-zero readings. (Story at right).

Apollo 17 reaches lunar landing site

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene Cernan and Jack Schmitt rode their lunar lander Challenger to a successful touchdown on the Moon today. Cernan and Schmitt will remain on the lunar surface for three days and three hours, making three extra-vehicular exploratory trips into an area that may help tell the story of the Moon's birth and death. Overhead, Ronald E. Evans remained aboard the command ship America, carrying out an extensive mapping mission as he orbited the Moon.

Cernan and Schmitt set their spidery, four-legged landing craft down almost exactly on schedule a few minutes before 1 p.m. MST. Their target was a dead-end canyon believed smothered by ash from a fiery volcano long ago.

This is the sixth and last lunar visit by Americans until the mid-1980's at earliest.

Cernan is missile commander and Schmitt is a geologist.

The pilots first turned on Challenger's systems and ran a series of communications checks. They then triggered an explosive charge which unfolded the craft's four shock-absorbing landing legs and prepared for the 12-minute descent to their touchdown point near a crater they call Camelot.

It was the busiest day in the $450 million expedition aimed at exploring both the moon's new and ancient history, and the pilots had little time for sightseeing. They started their day on schedule at 7:38 a.m. when ground communicator Joseph Allen broadcast the strains of Arlo Guthrie's version of the song 'City of New Orleans.'

At that time, Apollo 17 had dropped more than 10,000 feet during the night under the influence of lunar gravitational quirks. Mission Control predicted another 5,000 foot drop before the start of the powered descent.

The flight started producing scientific dividends even before the start of descent preparations. Allen told the pilots a new infrared radiation sensor in their command ship had detected hot spots on the surface.

During their 75 hours on the moon, Cernan and Schmitt will explore 23 miles of terrain, driving between two mountains more than a mile high to the north and south, a series of knobby hills to the east and a landslide and 300-foot cliff to the west.

Controls extension proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will ask Congress to extend the current economic controls beyond April 30, 1973, when they are due to expire, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today.

At a White House news conference, Shultz also said the President had decided to freeze salaries in the federal executive branch, Congress and the judiciary.

And as an example of the belt tightening philosophy, Shultz said there would be 'very substantial reductions' in the President's own staff.

Dole quits GOP post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Committee Chairman Robert J. Dole announced today he is resigning and will be succeeded by George Bush, now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

After conferring with President Nixon, Dole told reporters at the White House that Bush had been persuaded to take the party leadership as a result of a personal telephone call today from Nixon and a meeting with Dole in New York.

The selection of Bush, twice unsuccessful candidate for the Senate from Texas, is subject to approval by Republican Party leaders, but this is expected to be only a formality. Dole, senator from Kansas, said the GOP National Committee would meet Jan. 19 in Washington. He said that the committeemen already had been sounded out on his successor.

Dole insisted he was not being forced out of the job, although it was widely reported that Nixon wanted a full-time chairman.

With a wry smile, Dole told reporters there was some speculation when he met with Nixon at Camp David Nov. 28 that 'I went to the mountaintop to be pushed off.'

'That wasn't the case,' he said.

He said he had a 'very frank' discussion with the President and noted that he is a candidate for re-election to the Senate in 1974.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler backed up Dole's statement that he was not being eased out of the job.

Ziegler said Nixon felt that Dole had been one of the most articulate spokesmen and effective leaders the Republican Party has ever had.

'He is a man whom the President respects and whose services as leader of the Republican Party he appreciates tremendously.'

Dole said Anne Armstrong, who has the title of co-chairman, also would be departing. So will Thomas Evans, likewise holding the title of co-chairman. Evans has been critical of the President's lack of strong participation in support of Republican Congressional candidates in the last election.

School funding changes sought

TWIN FALLS — The state committee studying public school today called for major changes in the Idaho school funding formula.

The committee, meeting publicly in Twin Falls with Magic Valley legislators and education officials proposed changes in the school funding formula. It said they are needed to bring about a 'uniform thorough free system of public schools.'

In addition, the Ad Hoc Committee on Public School Formula Funding and School District Organization also urged the 1973 legislature to establish commission to study reorganization of public school districts and present a report to the law makers in their 1975 session.

The work of the commission would depend heavily on 'grass roots' sentiment. Jerry Evans, chairman of the ad hoc committee said. He is superintendent of schools in Caldwell.

Evans, who made the proposal, outlined the suggested changes in the meeting on the CSI campus this morning, the first in a series of seven public meetings state wide. Among the major changes in the funding formula proposed by the committee would be the raising of local taxes on the basis of an adjusted assessed valuation of about 12 per cent in each of the state's school districts. Current assessments range from a low of about 6 per cent to a high to 16.5 per cent.

HST improves with good rest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Seriously ill Harry S. Truman, relaxed today from a night of restless sleep, was asked by his doctor how he felt. 'I feel all right,' said the 88-year-old former president.

It was the most Truman had talked since he was hospitalized six days ago with a lung infection and a weakened heart.

'Former President Harry S. Truman had a restful night,' said John Dreves, a spokesman at a Research Hospital medical briefing. 'His cardiac situation continues to show irregularity in rhythm, which began last night.'

Truman improved so much Sunday that doctors took him off the critical list. He was given extra medication to control the abnormal beat of his heart. His once-filled lungs were free of fluid.

When the former chief executive was taken off the critical list, he was alert and spoke briefly and smiled at his daughter, Margaret Daniel, and his wife, Bess, 87.

Truman's pulse was 76 beats a minute today. His temperature was 97.8 and his blood pressure was 120 over 60.

'He continues to tolerate his tube feeding well,' Dreves said. 'Truman was being fed through a nasal tube.'

'Mr. Truman was asked how he felt,' Dreves said. 'He replied, 'I feel all right.' He also was asked if he hurt anywhere. President Truman's response was, 'No.'

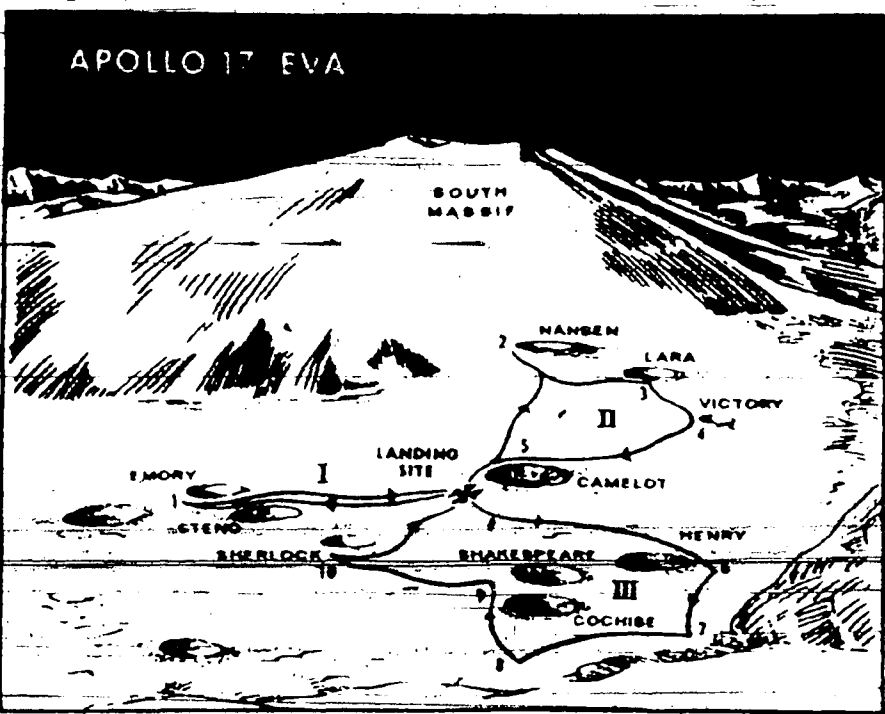

TF youth wounded

TWIN FALLS — A 14-year-old Twin Falls youth was injured Sunday evening when a shotgun accidentally discharged.

Reported in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is Gregory Wadsworth.

According to police reports, Wadsworth and a friend were babysitting at the home of Louis Cannon, Twin Falls, when the accident occurred. Apparently Wadsworth and the other boy had taken the shotgun from the basement of the Cannon residence and had laid it on a couch. Wadsworth was sitting in a chair, according to reports, when the gun fell off the couch and fired, the charge hitting Wadsworth in the upper leg and lower abdomen. Police are continuing their investigation. Cannon told police he did not think the gun was loaded when it was left in the basement.

Peace talks continue

PARIS (UPI) — White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger met today with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in their second consecutive week of talks — the first time their sessions have lasted so long.

The chief American delegate to the regular Thursday peace talks, William J. Porter, accompanied Kissinger for the first time.

And, perhaps significantly, North Vietnamese deputy Prime Minister Le Thanh Nghi arrived in Paris Sunday from Hanoi with Nguyen Van Kha, the man who played a large part in framing the Geneva accords.

Nghi would have sufficient rank to sign any agreement which would have to be signed on the American side by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Rogers flew home last Friday from a NATO meeting in Brussels disappointed that he was unable to sign the cease-fire agreement this weekend.

The Americans drove up to the swank suburban mansion of a wealthy New York-born jeweler in Neuilly sur Seine at 2:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EST) and the North Vietnamese were late for the first time, arriving a few minutes after 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST).

Today's Kissinger-Tho meeting follows the longest known session of the talks history on Sunday, when technical experts met for more than six hours, apparently to work out the technical wording of any cease-fire agreement. Aides from both sides refused to say what subjects they discussed or to indicate how the negotiations were going.

Kissinger's deputy, Gen. Alexander M. Haig, briefed President Nixon Sunday on the status of the negotiations.

Quake predicted by SF rumors

By RICHARD M. HARNETT
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Vicki Settles wishes she had the money to rent a helicopter for a few hours the morning of Jan. 4. She thinks she might witness the destruction of San Francisco in a great earthquake. Word is filtering through this quake-conscious city that the date has been set again for that cataclysmic shock that the experts say is due—sometime. But experts also say no one can forecast a quake.

Residents of some communes where many of the "hip" people now live, are getting their rusty vans ready for a trek to safer ground.

Vicki, however, is not a commune dweller. She is a clerk who works in the financial district, on the 28th floor of one of the many skyscrapers that she fears may come tumbling down precisely at 9 a.m. on the fourth day of the year 1973.

Vicki and a half-dozen of her co-workers are planning to be out of town. They have passed the word in their building and say a lot of people don't take it quite seriously enough to leave. "But a lot of them will be late for work—if the quake does not happen," she says.

"Look," says the young office worker, "If we were up here when it happened and we didn't know, we couldn't do anything about it. But when somebody tells me just when it's going to happen, I'm going to get away."

My mother is going to L.A., she adds. Word about the predicted quake has been passed by the "alternative" press and radio stations. It has not yet been acknowledged by the scientific community.

The last such exercise in earthquake countdown occurred in 1969, when the mayor and others held a fun-filled "doomsday" party in front of City Hall on the night that someone had said San Francisco would be destroyed.

The time for the predicted 1973 quake was set by Reuben Greenspan, who has been called an "independent geophysicist." He made his prediction in interviews with several newspapers in Arizona and California earlier this year.

Pilot lives, others die

YELLOWKNIFE, NWT (UPI)—A bush pilot who crashed on a mercy flight watched two of his companions die while he survived 31 days thanks to an Eskimo boy and a diet of melted snow, lichen and glucose.

The pilot, Martin Hartwell, said from his hospital bed Sunday, "I don't want to come out as the hero. I'm the one who should have died," reported his employer, Nell Murphy. Hartwell, 47, was rescued Saturday when search planes spotted him waving a red flare beside the wreckage of his downed Beechcraft. Nearby were the bodies of his passengers.

Dr. Warren Harrison of Stantton Yellowknife Hospital said Hartwell was in "excellent condition" and "is eating well and doing fine, but has lost 30 pounds. He seems in pretty good spirits but feels quite sorry about what happened. I think he felt responsibility for what happened since he was the pilot."

Murphy said Hartwell reported the crash occurred when he took the plane to a lower altitude to improve radio reception after being blown off course. While reaching for the map he turned on the cabin lights which destroyed his night vision. The plane crashed at this point, Murphy said. He said Hartwell thought he hit a tree and cartwheeled in.

The passengers aboard the plane when it disappeared Nov. 8 were an Eskimo boy, Kootook; British nurse Judy Hill, 27; and Nemoie-Mulroyak, a pregnant Eskimo woman.

If we get the velocity of the waves, we can make pretty intelligent guesses as to the internal structure," said Dr. David W. Strangway, head of the Manned Spacecraft Center's geophysics branch. "The waves move at different speeds through different material." Strangway said scientists would probably not learn anything startling from the recording of the shock waves created by the crash, but will add to the data already gathered by the four seismometers left on the surface by previous Apollo astronauts.

Question...

My husband died approximately one month after we paid the annual premium due on his life insurance policy. Am I entitled to a premium refund for the eleven months he prepaid his insurance?

Answer...

This is not a universal policy of life insurance companies. Usually the prepayment of consumer services infers the unused portion will be refunded if the policy is canceled following the death of the insured. Some life insurance companies return the pro-rated unearned portion of the premium payment and others don't. An annual insurance premium of $500 would net approximately $400 to the beneficiary of the insured if 11 unused months was refunded. Very possibly legislation may someday require all insurance companies to adopt a uniform payment policy. Until that time, however, each beneficiary confronted with this problem will have to negotiate individually with the insurance company involved in a settlement.

Defector's story sets Viet ambush

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese militiamen acting on a tip from a Viet Cong defector intercepted a Communist force moving from Cambodia toward Saigon today and killed 87 in a bitter fight just 42 miles northwest of the capital, military sources said.

The fighting broke out nine miles south of Tay Ninh province capital and was still going on late in the afternoon, Vietnamese officers said. Highway 22 linking Tay Ninh to Saigon, 50 miles away, was cut and "We've got the Communist bodies stacked on the road," one South Vietnamese officer said. Government casualties in the first 10 hours of fighting were three wounded, he said.

Sunday, Typhoon Therese smashed into South Vietnam's central coast, military spokesmen said today, wrecking one of the last U.S. Army bases in the war zone and cutting back air strikes throughout the country. But the U.S. command said B52 bombers, which fly above the weather, flew their heaviest one-day raids in the Saigon area in more than two months between noon Sunday and midday today.

Spokesmen said 39 B52s unloaded an estimated 1,170 tons of explosives on suspected Communist concentrations within 48 miles of the capital—the heaviest B52 strikes in the Saigon area since Oct. 6 when 42 of the big planes hit around the city.

Military sources said the militiamen in the Tay Ninh fighting were tipped by a Communist defector Sunday that an estimated 500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had moved out of their Cambodian sanctuary and were moving southeast toward Saigon. Acting on the intelligence, government troops poured 1,000 artillery shells into the Communist positions during the night, then moved in to make contact just after dawn today.

Typhoon Therese hit South Vietnam near Qui Nhon, the country's fourth largest city 250 miles north of Saigon, packing winds of 80 miles an hour, military spokesmen said. Provincial authorities in Binh Dinh said damage "was widespread throughout the province," although there were no reports of casualties.

The typhoon limited air strikes in central South Vietnam provinces Sunday to only 22, spokesmen said.

Among the hardest hit area was the Lane Army air base just outside Qui Nhon province capital. Military sources said three U.S. helicopters and a South Vietnamese A1 Skyraider fighter-bomber seeking refuge from the high winds were "extensively damaged."

The roofs of all the buildings at the base were torn off, one U.S. officer said. Most of the buildings at Lane are quonset huts. Lane is one of the last U.S. Army bases in South Vietnam. It is the home of one of seven helicopter air cavalry squadrons and several hundred administrative troops.

By noon today, Therese had swept inland and north, dissipating into local storms and rain showers in Vietnam's highlands. But military sources said a 1,000-foot-high cloud cover remained from the 13th Parallel just south of Qui Nhon to the 20th Parallel deep inside North Vietnam nearly 500 miles to the north.

Another nine B52 missions hit North Vietnam, one of them only one mile from the center of the southernmost port city of Dong Hoi, 38 miles above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), and the others near the DMZ itself.

Still another 10 waves of the eight-engine planes bombed in South Vietnam's northernmost Quang Tri Province. The strikes had the dual purpose of destroying southbound North Vietnamese troops and equipment, and helping government forces trying to push back Communist troops occupying most of the province.

Blasts rip offices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bomb blasts within 35 minutes of each other early today wrecked or heavily damaged Cuban-owned businesses in New York City and Miami.

The apparently related incidents heavily damaged a travel agency and destroyed the offices of a freight forwarding firm here, police said. An office in Miami belonging to the same forwarding firm, VA-Cuba, was heavily damaged along with some offices of the U.S. Immigration Service. No injuries were reported in any of the blasts.

Police said the firms hit with the explosive devices were Cuban-owned and speculated the bombs could have been planted by persons opposed to the Castro regime.

Bulgarian crash kills 26

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — A passenger train smashed into a freight train in eastern Bulgaria Sunday, killing 26 persons and injuring 10 others, the Bulgarian news agency BTA said today.

The first sleeping car carrying 30 passengers was wrecked on impact, BTA said.

Twenty-six died and 10 were injured, BTA said. The train was enroute from Sofia to Tolbuhin, a 250-mile easterly trip toward the Black Sea. BTA said the accident occurred in Venchan, in the Black Sea coast district of Varna.

The passenger train "hit a freight train standing at the (station) entrance signal," BTA said.

BTA, which did not report the crash until today, said a government commission was set up to investigate the incident.

Thermal lawsuit entrance studied

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative interim committee has asked the advisability of entering a California lawsuit in which the Federal government contends geo-thermal resources are minerals.

The geo-thermal study committee asked for study of the advisability of entering the suit as a friend of the court on the side of the defendants.

The Federal Government, contending geo-thermal resources are minerals, is trying to evict several parties from the geyser area of California. It cites a 1970 Congressional act which declares that any lands to which the Federal Government holds mineral rights it also holds geo-thermal rights.

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A Caldwell woman has filed a $50,000 lawsuit in third district court as a result of a fall from a vibrator at the number one Elaine Powers Figure Salon in Nampa.

The suit was filed against the owner, Idaho Congressman Steve Symms, Route 6, Caldwell, and the machine's manufacturer, Walton Manufacturing Co. of Texas.

Plaintiffs in the lawsuit are Magistrate Milton and Audrey Birnbaum of Caldwell.

Mrs. Birnbaum fell on Feb. 21, 1971, at the salon when the reducing belt on the vibrator machine slipped. She received a fracture to both wrists and a contusion to the Coccyx.

The suit claims that the Salon Employees were negligent by failing to instruct Mrs. Birnbaum properly and that Walton's was negligent and careless in designing a vibrator which allowed the belt to slip while the machine was in operation.

COMMENT

Nixon's Trends

Portland Oregonian

The trend throughout the first four years of the Nixon Administration was toward concentration of power and expansion of personnel in the White House. Cabinet officials grumbled about the overlordship of the President's staff. Congress growled about presidential usurpation of congressional authority, while doing little to restore its own vigor.

Now, with the reshuffle of the Cabinet under way and with up to 2,000 pro forma resignations in hand throughout the executive branch, President Nixon says he intends to bring Cabinet members into closer contact with the White House staff and the President. But he also says he will spend much more time at Camp David and other retreats in the next four years, to "get on top of the job."

The President has made it clear that he is aware of the historic pattern of second terms, which is "almost inevitably downhill." He coupled this with his landslide victory, and the impetus given thereby to a downhill coast. In his determination to avoid a loss of effectiveness, he intends to revitalize his Administration with new leaders and new ideas.

The announcements Tuesday are the beginning. Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, who has been an effective department chief with excellent relations in Congress where he was a long-time representative, will return to private life in Wisconsin—at least for awhile. Elliot Richardson, who has served as undersecretary of state and succeeded the faltering Bob Finch as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will take Laird's post. Caspar Weinberger, who succeeded George Shultz as head of the powerful executive arm, the Office of Management and Budget, goes to HEW. Roy Ash, head of Littton Industries and chairman of the President's Advisory Council on Executive Reorganization, takes the OMB post.

George Romney's resignation as head of the Department of Housing and Urban Development has been accepted. Romney, the ex-automaker and Michigan governor who has been a square peg in his round Cabinet hole, intends to organize a citizens' group—not "a Republican Common Cause"—which could be another watchdog of government. Romney took his failure to get a presidential campaign under way rather hard and probably saw the President less than any other Cabinet member.

Inasmuch as President Nixon has no immediate plans to give up his chief foreign affairs adviser, Dr. Henry Kissinger, his old and loyal friend at State, William P. Rogers, is likely to be around for awhile. John Connally and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller are out. Neither would accept a dominant Kissinger role, but each has other plans. Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton, a politically adept and good administrator, is expected to remain, as is George Shultz as Connally's successor at Treasury. The others are expendable.

The President evidently recognizes that the White House population explosion has made him more remote from not only the Cabinet and Congress but from the American people. He says the White House staff will be cut more drastically than any other executive department or agency.

Failure of the Republican Party to capitalize on President Nixon's massive personal victory by electing more members to Congress may have made a strong impression on Mr. Nixon. It should. Ours is not a one-man government. And foreign affairs are not everything. If the President continues on the course he has set for his second term, his relations with Congress could improve and the important domestic needs of the nation may get more constructive recognition. — OJS

Berlin Rebuff

Christian Science Monitor
West German Chancellor Willy Brandt had intended to go to East Berlin before Christmas to sign the basic treaty formalizing relations between the two Germanys which was initiated last month.

But he has had to cancel his plans, not through any desire of his own, but because the East German authorities will be too busy to receive him.

The official language cloaking the change in plans will deceive no one. "international obligations" on the part of the East German leadership for the dates suggested by Bonn.

The plain fact is that East Germany's Communist chief, Erich Honecker, feared a repetition of the spontaneous popular demonstration that greeted Mr. Brandt when he crossed the frontier two years ago to meet with East German Prime Minister Willy Stoph in Erfurt.

Mr. Brandt's impressive victory in the recent West German elections could only have heightened Mr. Honecker's concern.

Now the treaty will be signed on Dec. 21 by the two top officials who negotiated it with none of the fanfare that would have accompanied a signing by Mr. Brandt and Mr. Stoph.

This episode is a measure of the limitations of the treaty and of what detente means in the German context.

The treaty endorses the existence of two separate German states. It recognizes and stabilizes the status quo in Central Europe on the basis of the frontiers left by World War II. It means that the two Germanys are now on speaking terms. It opens the door to more contacts between them on the personal and cultural level, to more scientific and technical exchanges, to cooperation in the fields of transport, communications and environmental protection.

But it leaves the Berlin Wall intact and the frontier on the East German side still heavily armed with mines and automatic shooting devices.

Clearly Mr. Honecker has no intention of letting the treaty erode his country's position as a Communist state.

East Germany today is gaining in self-confidence. Its economic prowess has placed it ninth among the world's industrial powers. The way is now open for its admission to the United Nations and its recognition by the Western powers.

But the refusal to accept Mr. Brandt's visit to East Berlin, like the maintenance of the Berlin Wall and the shooting devices, is an admission of the fundamental weakness of the Communist half of Germany. The weakness is that it cannot afford to open its doors to the winds of freedom blowing from the West.

College Daughters In Lunatic City

WASHINGTON — In the case of the parents of the United States vs. Hell City, I confess to prejudice. That is to say, I maintain that parents who dispatch their daughters to college or any other boarding school in this lunatic community should have their heads examined.

This is unfair, because Washington has a lot of good institutions of higher learning.

Unfortunately, however, it is fast becoming the rape capital of the country, and parents have enough problems without inviting sexual assault on their girls.

To get down to specifics, a 17-year-old black youth named Santonia C. Butler was acquitted the other day of charges that he raped a George Washington University coed and forced her and another coed one member of the all-black jury had to say about why Butler was acquitted.

According to Wendell L. Martin, the general feeling of the jury was that "not enough resistance was put up by the girls involved." The eight women on the jury said Martin were "women speaking as women," who felt the two white coeds could have used their teeth, fingernails and feet to resist "violence of this type."

Of course a girl should resist a rapist. But it seems to me the jurors were speaking from the courage of detachment. Most of us believe we would resist an assault on our persons and some of us might even do so. But it is much easier to be brave in a jury room than in a dark place, alone. In any event, testimony revealed that both girls were hysterical when they reported the attacks and a physician said she found at least 10 sizeable bruises on the body of one of the coeds.

So, the question arises: How much resistance should a female put up to a rapist? My craven reply is—practically none. It is craven, but it is also rational, on account of the graves in Hell City are filled with the bodies of girls who tried to fight off rapists.

And yet in Washington the law requires that the female prove that a sexual act "was committed forcibly and against her will." Standard instructions to juries declare: "You may not find that the complaining witness submitted out of fear of death or grave bodily harm simply because she said she was afraid. Such fears must be shown to have been reasonable

The instructions, of course, are designed to protect innocent males against frameup. But in effect they place the victim on trial along with the suspect. I don't quite know how I would prove "reasonable fear" if an attacker demanded my virtue or my life, and few rapes are committed before a gaggle of witnesses. Besides, even if a woman does submit to rape, it is hard to understand why her submission should bar prosecution of the stranger who accosted her with sexual intercourse in mind.

A year ago, Washington's Police Department issued guidelines to help women avoid being raped. One advised them to scream as loud as possible. And, in general, the courts expect women to "resist as much as possible."

Well, bully. But listen to Sgt. James R. Waybright of the Sex Squad. "Last week," says the sergeant, "a woman was attacked on Massachusetts Avenue, and she screamed. She was almost beaten to death with a hammer." Some scream.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Numbness

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a frequent feeling of numbness in my hands, initially in thumb and first two fingers, and at times a dull ache near the elbow of wrist.

The numbness increases when I elevate my hands or hold any vibrating instrument, lawn mower, auto steering wheel, etc. Many times I have to find a precise location for my arms in order to sleep without the numbness. I am 50, otherwise in good health.

Can this condition be lessened by exercise, by diet, or other means? — A. C. K.

The two likeliest causes of numbness such as you describe are: (1) arthritic-type changes in vertebrae in the neck, exerting pressure on roots of nerves leading to the hands and fingers; (2) a condition called carpal tunnel syndrome, which is a narrowing of a "tunnel" or tendon space through which nerves run to the hands and fingers.

Certain items in your letter make the former seem more likely — one being the fact that you have to find a "precise location" for your arms to get relief. It would indicate that there is a position in which pressure on the nerves is relieved, but that this position must be met within very small limits.

Posture can be a factor. Do you have a tendency to slouch forward and "lead with your chin"? It's worth investigating.

Neither diet nor exercise can answer the problem, and my suggestion is that X-ray of the neck spine is in order, to see whether significant changes have occurred in the neck bones. Your doctor, in such a case, would determine whether neck traction would help you. As to carpal tunnel syndrome, flexing the wrist for a minute or two will bring on the discomfort, and there are other tests that a physician can use to determine whether that is the trouble. Surgery on the wrist can relieve that.

In either case (carpal tunnel or changes in the neck) you are wasting time hoping that "diet or exercise" will cure it. Yet once the true cause has been diagnosed, effective treatment becomes possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 61 and in fine health but I have varicose veins. I love to walk, weather permitting, and can walk a mile or so without trouble.

We recently moved to a new area where there are no sidewalks, which makes walking difficult. I have been thinking of buying a good second-hand bicycle instead of walking. Would this aggravate the varicose veins? My husband says I'm a fool to cycle at my age. — Mrs. R. K.

No, you're not a fool. Exercise is good for those varicose veins. It won't correct the trouble, but it will encourage circulation and help the trouble from getting worse. Cycling will be as useful as walking.

The bike, long relegated to young folks, for some years now has been regaining a deserved popularity among older people. Some, in their 70s and 80s, and maybe a bit unsteady on a two-wheeler, have found the three-wheel bike just the thing. You ride it just like a two-wheeler, but it has two rear wheels.

ART BUCHWALD

End Of Era

NEW YORK, N.Y. — As the Apollo 17 ends an era of manned exploration of the moon, another era of exploration on earth also comes to a close. The Long Island Railroad Commuter program is being phased out and there is talk that people who live on Long Island may never see New York City again.

I talked to three commuters in Huntington, Long Island, who had expected to make the last trip, but had to postpone it because of a strike.

One of the commuters told me: "Space travel by railroad as we know it is over. It just got too expensive for Americans to foot the bill. There is some talk about launching a manned shuttle train in the late 70s, and we even may send one train to New York made up of an American and Russian crew, but for the most part our trip could be the last one anybody will take."

Why the disenchantment with the Long Island Railroad Commuter program? I asked another of the men.

When the Russians launched a high-speed train from Moscow to Leningrad, President Gorbachev decided we could not be second, and so he asked Congress for a crash program to beat the Russians in Railroad Space Travel. There was tremendous excitement when the program was announced. Nobody believed you could send a man from Long Island to New York City and have him survive.

"But thanks to American knowhow and hardware," the third commuter said, "we not only got a man to New York but we proved he could live there for a short period of time."

The commuter program was the darling of Congress and for a long while they couldn't give enough money to the railroads. Every time a commuter returned from a trip he was invited to the White House for dinner and given a ticker-tape parade to city hall. Most of us who got into the program and moved to Long Island thought we would make it our life's work.

But then, said one of the other commuters, "the American people started losing interest in Railroad Space Travel."

Congress started cutting back in funds. Newspaper editorials began asking, "Why are we spending so much money to send men to New York City when the funds could be spent on highways in suburbia?" Another man said, "We stopped becoming American heroes. No one was interested in the rocks we brought back from Manhattan. The Railroad Space Industry found its contracts being halved and there were labor problems at the launch sites. The trains ran later and later. Pretty soon no one wanted responsibility for the Long Island."

Commuters froze in the winter and perspired in the summer. Many of them dropped out of the program," the third man said.

What scientific contribution do you think the Railroad Space program has made to our country? I asked.

We proved," said one of the commuters, "that man can live in a hostile environment for hours on end. We also showed that although it cannot sustain life, New York City was probably once part of Long Island. This is terribly important if we are seeking the origins of our planet."

Furthermore," said the second commuter, "we proved we could get to New York before the Russians did. This has had a beneficial effect on the American morale."

"Of course," said the third commuter, starting out at the empty tracks, "it's all over now. But I don't think you can stop man's curiosity. I predict that someday not only will man go to New York again, but he'll live there. Who knows, someday he might even make it by train to Trenton."

RAY CROMLEY

Key Execs

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A relatively small group of willful men scattered in key positions through the government have for almost four years actively sabotaged the programs sponsored by their President.

In the main, these are holdovers from the Kennedy administration and still emotionally loyal to the late president, men who believed at the start that Mr. Nixon would be a one-term president and that his administration and all its works would pass. These men stand in contrast to their more dedicated brothers. The problem is that they hold posts through which they can harm programs with which they do not agree.

Some of these men are outside the civil service and can be removed without too much difficulty. Some are section or division chiefs within the higher service grades and can be shifted from their key posts only by abolishing the positions or transferring the men to other tasks. Theoretically, an obstructionist could be fired for incompetence. But in practice this is virtually impossible to accomplish.

In office after office men and women have reported to this writer in some detail the behind-the-scenes planning aimed at slowing down or blocking President Nixon's favored projects. In private staff meetings, supervisors have waxed eloquent in sarcasm aimed at the President's innovations. Some loyal men have been forced, in self protection to hide their loyalties.

Some Nixon appointees, in fact, have been forced out of key positions because entrenched opposition in their offices made it impossible for them to accomplish anything. They could have stayed on, at high salaries, writing endless memoranda, doing makework assigned by immediate superiors determined that no administration man would be allowed to operate effectively. White House aides found that intervention was useless; the supervisors said "yes sir" and went about business as usual.

Even where Nixon men have dominated a section or an agency, they have sometimes found their plans could be blocked effectively by anti-administration men in other agencies.

This reporter talked at length a few days ago with the deputy chief of one important agency, given sizable new tasks by the White House, an organization which to be effective must work in close harness with 50 states and several federal agencies. The program is imaginative and highly needed. It will make possible the year-round use of facilities and personnel heretofore geared only to war. But accomplishments have been extremely disappointing to date. Most states are cooperating. But government in-fighting between agencies has slowed effectiveness. The fault in part is Mr. Nixon's.

New Demo chief vows 'nuts and bolts' approach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The voice of the Democratic party has a Texas twang once again, but the man who owns it says he'll be a nuts-and-bolts politician and not a philosophical spokesman in the next four years.

Robert C. Strauss, a gray-haired 64-year-old Dallas lawyer, took the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee away from Jean Westwood Saturday.

Strauss, the party treasurer for three years before the "new politics" faction behind Sen. George S. McGovern took over last summer, could not manage to actually oust Mrs. Westwood as he set out to do, but the Utah woman had to pledge that she would resign without conditions in order to block an impeachment move.

So when the showdown came, Mrs. Westwood was unable to knock Strauss out of the race, which she had wanted to be the price of her own resignation. And Strauss, who said he had 108 votes in hand Friday night, immediately came up with 106-12 on the first ballot Saturday afternoon, with a majority of members present and voting as well as an absolute majority of the 208 committee votes. That ended talk of wheeling and dealing against Strauss on a later ballot.

Mrs. Westwood's supporters had maintained from the first that the labor union-Southern conservative-old liberal coalition behind Strauss was more interested in rolling back party reforms and regaining party control than they were in ousting the Utah woman. Strauss did not pledge himself to continue unchanged the so-called "quota system" that ended talk of wheeling and dealing against Strauss on a later ballot.

party conventions proportional to their numbers in the population, but neither did any of the other candidates for chairman who had Mrs. Westwood's blessing. Strauss immediately took the chair, full of praise for Mrs. Westwood and declaring he was no man's creature, despite campaign claims in the days before the meeting that he was in the pocket of former Texas Gov. John Connally, who this year headed Democrats for Nixon.

"I sacrificed no principles to win this chair," he said, "and I will sacrifice none to retain it." He pledged to be "a worker, a doer, a putter-together" for the party and not a "philosophical spokesman" for one faction. That he could get the long-winded Democrats to reduce their talking and take action, Strauss demonstrated immediately. He gavelled through a motion to appoint a woman co-chairman, engineered the election of Caroline Wilkins of Oregon to the job, accepted Mrs. Westwood's list of members for the charter commission (and added her to it) and closed down the meeting. Sunday, Strauss said he was personally assured he was acceptable to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for the party post.

Tanaka party victor

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka led the ruling Liberal-Democratic party to victory Sunday in an election in which the Communist party made its strongest showing yet in Japanese politics.

Tanaka pledged today to continue his party's foreign policy of cooperation with the United States.

The LDP has won every general election since Japan regained its post-war independence in 1952.

With only six of the 491 seats in the key lower house of the Japanese parliament undecided, LDP-backed candidates had clinched 289, for a working majority of 23.

The system resembles Britain's, in that the party with a majority in the lower house controls the government.

Independent candidates, most of them conservatives, won 16 seats. At least a dozen of them were expected to vote with Tanaka's party in parliament. LDP controlled 297 seats before the election.

The Socialist party, Japan's perpetual No. 2 in politics, made a comeback, and had won 117 seats compared to 87 held before the election.

The Communist party emerged as the third largest in parliament, clinching 38 seats, compared to 14 held before the voting. Communist candidates won 10.4 per cent of the 51.6 million ballots cast by Japanese voters Sunday.

Losers in the election were the two middle of the road opposition parties. The Komei (Clean Government) party had won only 28 seats compared to 47 held before the election. The Democratic Socialist party which held 29 before the voting had clinched only 17.

Ellsberg mistrial rule due

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The on-again, off-again Pentagon Papers trial is off again—at least until after the first of the year—because of delays that have kept the jury idle for the four months since it was chosen.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, who is hearing the case of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, said he would declare a mistrial today and dismiss the jury Tuesday, the time the trial had been scheduled to resume.

Byrne said he was taking the action in light of an opinion by the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal in San Francisco that it would be "foolish to proceed to trial in the case with the jury selected four months ago."

The eight-woman, five-man jury was picked last July but the trial was recessed before testimony began because of a series of defense motions involving government wiretapping.

When the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the wiretap appeal last month, the defense motioned for a mistrial on grounds that the jury has been exposed to prejudicial publicity during the delay.

Ellsberg and Russo, former colleagues at the Rand Corp., "think tank," are charged under espionage laws of illegal theft and possession of the secret documents about the evolution of the Vietnam war.

The Pentagon Papers were leaked to the news media in July, 1971.

Israelis smash spy ring

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Police said today the biggest and most dangerous spy ring ever smashed in Israel had planned to assassinate government officials, including Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, in the near future.

The disclosure came as the number of suspects arrested since last week rose to 38 with the seizure of 17 Arabs from their homes in northern Israel during the night. Four of those in custody are Israeli Jews, the others Arabs. Deputy Superintendent of Police Uriel Sasson called the Syrian spy ring "the largest, best organized and most dangerous that we have come up against since 1948," the year the state was born. A spokesman said he could provide no further details on who else might have been targeted for assassination besides Dayan. He said even more arrests could be expected.

The spokesman confirmed reports over the national radio and in the country's newspapers that a number of leaders considered "chauvinistic" by the ring's members had been put on the assassination list.

The espionage ring intended to kill a number of government officials, including Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, the national radio said. According to the Jerusalem Post, Dayan was "high on the list."

Team labors in cold seeking crash cause

CHICAGO (UPI) — Officials of the National Transportation Safety Board labored in cold and snow Sunday, attempting to determine the cause of the crash near Midway Airport Friday of United Airlines 737 jet in which 45 persons were killed.

NTSB investigators examined the structure of the wreckage "as it lay" before removing the wreckage to a hanger for further investigations.

Meanwhile, the Cook County morgue completed the task of identifying the bodies of the victims, some of whose bodies had been burned beyond recognition in the fire that engulfed the plane shortly after the crash.

Forty passengers, three crew members and two residents of a home into which the plane crashed lost their lives in the disaster. Among the dead were the pilot, W.L. Whitehouse and Rep. George W. Collins, D-Ill., a passenger.

Eighteen persons on board the Washington-to-Chicago-to-Onaha flight, including all three stewardesses, survived. An NTSB spokesman, Edward Slattery, said the "nitty-gritty" of the investigation began Sunday with interviews with survivors, including at least two stewardesses, and control tower personnel.

At the scene, particular attention was being paid to the electrical and hydraulic systems of the plane, he said.

NTSB officials revealed Saturday the plane was making a routine approach to the airport when the tower suggested it execute a "missed approach" and come in again. The pilot agreed and began the routine climb and circle maneuver just before the craft disappeared from the radar screen and crashed, the officials said.

Huntsman survives

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (UPI) — A hunter who survived two months in a cabin by eating mice and grubs was rescued by snowmobilers Sunday after walking for eight days in the wilderness.

The hunter, Andros Mavracic, 48, of Gravenhurst, Ont., was reported in excellent condition at a local hospital, although doctors said he was suffering from extreme fatigue and had lost 32 pounds.

Constable Ray J. Duguay of the Ontario Provincial Police said "two" snowmobilers found Mavracic when he stumbled out of dense country near the Batchawana River after walking 30 miles nonstop on snowshoes. Mavracic did not sleep during his trek because he feared that if he did he would never awake, Duguay said.

Air ace 'serious'

MIAMI (UPI) — World War I flying ace Eddie Rickenbacker remained in serious condition Sunday at Mercy Hospital fighting effects of a stroke suffered Oct. 11.

Rickenbacker arrived in Miami from New York to celebrate his 82nd birthday.

anniversary shortly before he was stricken. The retired chairman of the board of Eastern Air Lines was first listed in critical condition but has been downgraded to "serious condition."

Rickenbacker divides his time between residences in New York and Miami.

Bakery strike over

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Fresh bread and pastry from two of the nation's largest bakeries began appearing again on market shelves today as 12,000 bakers on both coasts returned to their jobs with a new contract.

The contract agreement, announced Saturday, gives nearly half of the workers in the industry both weekend days off — the primary issue in the month-long strike-lockout.

"This is something we've been working for since 1951," said Joseph Kane, vice president of the International Bakery and Confectionary Workers Union. Involved in the strike were bakers at the ITT-Continental and Interstate plants in five Western states and three Atlantic States, including New York.

Consumers at no time during the strike suffered serious bread shortages because independent bakeries took up the slack as they worked on an around the clock basis.

Under the settlement, industry cake bakers work five consecutive days. Bread plants will attempt to give the same schedule to their workers.

War machine unfit

BRUSSELS (UPI) — A top secret survey by the Egyptian army and air force has convinced the Cairo military that it cannot fight Israel in the foreseeable future, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the survey showed that only 40 per cent of the army's weapons are battle-ready and only 60 to 65 per cent of the air forces warplanes are ready to fly.

Another startling disclosure in the survey, they said, is the news that Egypt lost about 100 fighters and bombers in the "war of attrition" with Israel since late 1969. Until August, 1970, and in training since then. At the time, the Egyptians said they lost 10 planes in fighting

Israel. The sources said the Egyptian military is less worried about the losses in the fighting with Israel than that their air force squandered at least 50 planes — maybe more — in training accidents in the two years since then.

The sources said the survey blames the lack of battle-readiness on bad maintenance, careless handling by Egyptian troops and a lack of spare parts from Russia, which supplied most of the arms.

"They said the survey has led top military men in Cairo to conclude that their nation would be no match for Israel in another war — now or in the foreseeable future."

IRA booby trap kills Briton

RELEASE (UPI) — British officers said today a soldier killed by a blast inside a fortified Belfast military post apparently fell victim to an Irish Republican Army (IRA) booby trap.

Sgt. Stewart Middlemass, a 33-year-old father of three, died and two other soldiers were wounded Sunday when the tail fin of a British 3.5 inch rocket found by a patrol exploded inside Fort Monagh, a steel-barricaded post overlooking Belfast's Roman Catholic Ballymurphy district.

Middlemass was the 658th person killed in more than three years of violence in Northern Ireland between Protestants, Catholics, the British army and the IRA.

A routine patrol found the rocket tail fin in the garden of an abandoned house near the post. Because it appeared harmless, soldiers were handling it.

"There are standing orders that anything which might be booby-trapped should be left for bomb disposal experts," a British spokesman said. "A mistake was made here — a fatal mistake."

British officers said it appeared IRA guerrillas planted the explosive-laden tail fin in the garden, knowing it would be found by soldiers who regularly search the area.

Middlemass was the second soldier killed by a booby trap in six days. On Dec. 5, IRA guerrillas who staged a mortar attack on an army post in Lurgan, 25 miles south of Belfast, left a booby-trapped shell behind for pursuing troops to find. It killed a sergeant.

President returns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon returned to the White House from his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat Sunday to receive a first-hand report on the Paris peace talks from Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., his second-ranking negotiator.

Haig flew from Paris to Washington early Sunday to brief Nixon, touching off speculation that "the peace" discussions were at a crucial stage. White House spokesmen refused to provide any information about the one-hour, 15-minute meeting between Haig, who is deputy to White House National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger, and Nixon.

The spokesmen would not say when Haig would return to Paris. He spent Sunday night in Washington.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has maintained close cable communications with Kissinger throughout the talks but would not say what circumstances necessitated Haig's face-to-face report.

The Killing of Sister George

Court makes water, oil decision

By MICHAEL O. WESTER
United Press International

Water, flowing in underground rivers, is becoming legal dynamite as the need for food and the need for energy increase.

An odyssey in west Texas already has gone to the State Supreme Court to cap a seven-year legal battle seeking water which can be essential for the production of both food and oil.

The case developed in an area essential to both industries. It is part of the richest cotton and grain sorghum country in the nation, and also a part of the largest oil field in the world.

The energy crisis and the water crisis met head on in a Texas court case between Sun Oil Co. and Levelland, Tex., farmer Earnest Whitaker. Litigation began in October 1966, and was denied on a second motion for rehearing this past October by the Texas Supreme Court.

After four decisions in the case supporting the crop producer, the Texas supreme court decided in a 5-4 decision in favor of the oil producer.

"It is possible that the court is not the proper forum to decide this question," said Richard W. Hemingway, professor at Texas Tech University's School of Law and a specialist in oil and gas law.

"Future legislative action may be necessary to decide priority policies relative to competing water usage by the agricultural and petroleum industries."

Wherever good irrigated farmland and rich mineral deposits overlap, as they do in west Texas, there is likely to be a conflict of priority for available water," he said.

Hemingway was engaged in private practice and was on the faculties of the University of Houston and Baylor University schools of law before joining the Texas Tech law faculty in 1969.

Texas editor of the "Oil and Gas Reporter," Hemingway has written extensively for professional journals. He is the author of a recently published textbook, "The Law of Oil and Gas," published as part of West Publishing Co.'s widely used "hornbook" series of legal texts.

Ironically, the deciding Supreme Court vote was cast by Justice Ruel C. Walker. Walker earlier had refused voluntarily to participate on the decision because he and 11 cousins were undivided owners of 300 acres of mineral classified land in Reeves County, Texas, which was under lease to Sun Oil.

However, the state's highest court itself, after deadlocking on the case, qualified Walker to participate in the decision "since he had engaged in no other transaction with son, owned no stock or other interest in that company, held no private interest in the subject matter of the dispute in the suit and knew of no other reason for which he might be disqualified."

The legal question arose after Whitaker, a west Texas farmer, purchased land but not the mineral rights to a farm in 1946 from L. D. Gann. Sun Oil had a lease, negotiated before the sale of the land, giving it "free use of oil, gas, coal, wood and water from said land, except water from the lessor's wells, for all operations" described in the lease.

No provision was contained in the lease pertaining to secondary recovery operations.

Sun Oil began to inject fresh water from the Ogallala aquifer the same formation which supplied Whitaker's irrigation water — for secondary recovery and pressure maintenance operations.

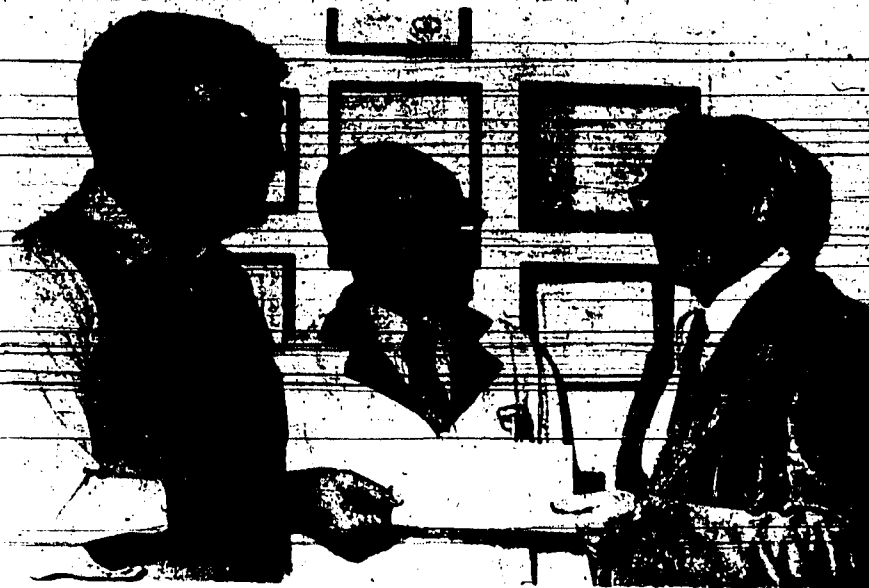

Later, Sun Oil brought suit to permanently enjoin Whitaker from interfering with this use of water.

Whitaker argued such usage by the oil company would deplete substantially the water available for irrigation use by some eight to 10 years.

The Supreme Court's decision was based on an implied grant to the lessee of surface usage — that the lessee has the right to use those portions of the surface estate, including underground water, for operations that are reasonably necessary for production under the lease.

A dissent was filed by Justice Price Daniel to the effect the majority of the court had misconstrued the concept of the implied grant.

Siding with Walker were justices Sears McGee, who actually wrote the majority opinion, Thomas A. Reavley, A. J. Pope Jr., and Chief Justice James G. Denton.

CSI receives grant

TWIN FALLS — An additional $300 has been granted the College of Southern Idaho Vocational Technical School for use in the diesel training program.

Orville Bradley, director of the vocational training programs, said the money will be used for instructional material in the current class on maintenance and repair of diesel engines.

The grant was given by the John Deere Foundation and is one of several offered junior colleges and other small colleges where diesel mechanics are taught. Ross Randle, instructor, said about 12 men, maximum for this type of class, are currently studying diesel motors.

He said many will be using the training for vocational purposes while others will use it to benefit their work with diesel equipment in connection with farming or other established careers.

The presentation was made by the John Deere Co., Portland, through the John Deere Foundation with V. W. Ballard, area service manager, making the presentation to CSI officials.

Church seeks forester info on Hells Canyon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church has requested detailed information from the U. S. Forest Service on its plans for acquisition of land in Hells Canyon.

The Idaho senator, who sponsored the move in Congress to make available $4 million in purchase money for the Hells Canyon lands, made his request in telegrams to the regional foresters in Missoula, Mont., and Portland, Ore.

As a result of an announcement last week that the forest service will proceed with condemnation proceedings to acquire land in Hells Canyon if current negotiations with private property owners in the area fail, said Church in the telegrams. "Numerous questions have been raised about the future of the acquisition policy."

MR. AND MRS. REED E. STACEY

Lorna Meyer, Reed Stacey wed

TWIN FALLS — Lorna Marie Meyer became the bride of Reed E. Stacey, Hansen, in rites Nov. 25 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Rev. Kenneth G. Rhoades performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Charles F. Meyer, Moscow, and Marjorie Meyer, Twin Falls. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lois Stacey, Lorenzo.

The bride wore a gown of lace and organza over bridal satin accented with hot pink velvet ribbons around the neckline, sleeves and empire-waistline.

Her Juliet cap was trimmed with matching ribbon and featured a waist-length veil. White daisies and baby's breath made up her bridal bouquet.

The gown and cap were Lorna originals.

Susan K. Meyer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Gaylene Anderson, Twin Falls, was bridesmaid. Bobra Kay Stacey, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Matthew Dorian Meyer, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Reese G. Stacey, brother of the bridegroom, Lorenzo, served as best man. Robert Lynn Stacey, Hansen, brother of the bridegroom, served as groomsmen. Ushers were Timothy C. Meyer, brother of the bride, and Arlen Haddon, Lorenzo.

The couple was honored at a reception at the bride's mother's home.

A buffet luncheon was served. A three-tier wedding cake enhanced the bride's table. The cake was decorated with pink satin bells topped with jutting sprays of lilies of the valley and accented with pink roses, white sugar bells and cupid.

Ruth Colberg, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and wedding gifts, which the bride and bridegroom opened.

Mrs. John Colberg, aunt of the bride, served the cake. Leo Matberg, Twin Falls, and Wayne Gray, Idaho Falls, were the photographers. Mrs. Charles Allen was organist.

Guests attended from Arizona, Oregon, Wyoming and various Idaho communities.

After a wedding to Jackpot, Nev., the couple will reside in Twin Falls, where the bridegroom is employed by Ida-Cal Freightlines.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently there has been a lot of publicity about a romance between two celebrities—the woman being quite a bit older than the man. What a switch! Hooray for the man who publicly stated that he prefers "mature" women.

For years, women have watched older men go for young girls, and now along comes a handsome, talented young man who isn't ashamed to let the world know that he prefers a "mature" woman. What a boost that has been to the morale of the middle-aged woman.

Thank "you-know-who" for me, will you, Abby?
A MATURE WOMAN

Prefers maturity

DEAR MATURE: Mature men always have preferred mature women. But maturity doesn't automatically come with age alone. I say, "hooray for both of them!"

DEAR ABBY: I can no longer remain silent. Mothers who read their children's diaries deserve what they get.

As a child, I kept a diary, and I'm sure my mother would have turned white had she read it. Perhaps my mother was unusual, but I know she never touched my diary, because I always left it a certain way so I could tell if it had been opened, and it never had.

Abby, I was a very romantic child, and my fantasies were positively wild! I recorded "experiences" in my diary that took place only in my imagination. For example: "I must be careful not to call Mr. Smith 'Pete' in front of my parents because they are very friendly with him, and his wife. I wonder what my folks would say if they knew that I sneak out every night to meet him secretly?" (It was all of 14 years old, and poor Mr. Smith never gave me more than a fatherly pat on the head, but I had a mad crush on him.)

I also wrote, [at 15], "I think I am pregnant. The doctor says he isn't sure, but I think he's wrong. If I am, I'll have to run away because I wouldn't know who the father is. I've had so many lovers!"

Now that I am married and have children of my own, I'd never dare to read their diaries. I haven't the courage!

Thanks for letting me say this. GOOD MEMORY

DEAR GOOD: And thanks for a good letter.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the idiot who doesn't like to be called "nurse" makes a retired dogface infantry soldier feel like swatting her bottom with a crutch.

Before World War II, we never called a medical officer or nurse by their military rank unless we didn't like them, or thought they were a lousy doctor or nurse. We even called the medical aidesman attached to the company "Doc," provided he measured up.

Only those who have had to call "Medic!" in a combat area can understand why, to a doughfoot, the title of "doctor" or "nurse" carried more respect and outright reverence than "general" or "admiral."

Even in today's Army, with drafted doctors, I expect that the military medical officer and nurse get that warm feeling when a patient says "Thank you, doctor" or "nurse," instead of "major," "sir," or "ma'am," because then they know that they are appreciated and respected for what they mean to the man who uses the most respectful title he knows.

Any female employee of a hospital who objects to being called "nurse" doesn't deserve to be called one—because she really isn't one in the eyes of her patients. She should quit and do something else. RETIRED DOGGIE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOOSE" FROM GOOSECREAK, TEXAS: You are indeed a "goose"—and unless you make different arrangements with regard to that joint checking account, you will wind up old and tired with a goose egg.

Problems? Trust Abby: For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69709, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69709, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

- 6 squares unsweetened chocolate (6 oz.)
- 2 tablespoons butter

Sift sugar and add gradually to the well beaten eggs. Mix until smooth. Add broken nuts and vanilla. Melt chocolate in Add butter to melted chocolate and blend. Add chocolate mixture to nut mixture and mix well. Turn at once into well greased pan, about 10 by six inches.

When firm, cut into pieces. Yields about two pounds. For variety, try adding one cup raisins instead of nuts.

Gaylen Colter served as best man. Other ushers and groomsmen included the brother of the bride, Sam Johansen; Dave Williams, John Rockwell and Jim Erne.

Candlelighters were Beverly Walker and Dave Williams. Dawn Bryan, Gooding, was flower girl, and Shawn Bryan was ringbearer.

Mrs. Dennis Hall, Pocatello, played wedding music preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Kenneth Krahof, Midvale, was soloist and accompanied herself on the guitar.

A reception followed the ceremony in the basement of the church with ladies of the church in charge.

The lace covered refreshment table held the four-tier wedding cake which was trimmed all in white and held a cherub on the top tier. Lighted red tapers flanked the cake. Pink and red mints were made by Mrs. John Bryan.

Serving the cake was Mrs. K. Duane Butler, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Douglas Earl, Salt Lake, the bride's cousin. At the punch bowl was Mrs. Orville Henry Jr. Gooding, and Carma Butler, Idaho Falls, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Glen Jones, Almo; aunt of the bride, presided at the silver coffee service.

Mrs. Rick Bateman, Provo, Utah, and Miss Butler received the gifts. Mrs. Dan Yore was at the guest book.

Quartet tables were centered with white cherub vases holding red and white chrysanthemums.

Special guests at the wedding included the grandparents of the newlyweds, Mrs. Minnie Redington, Gooding; Mrs. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. George Vrieling, Grangeville. Others attended from Glenns Ferry, Buhl, Almo and Grangeville.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Gooding High School and also Lady Catherine's Beauty College in Boise. She is presently employed at a beauty shop in Grangeville.

Walker is a graduate of the Grangeville High School in 1969 and attended the University of Idaho. He is associated with a jewelry store in Grangeville where they will make their home.

Jim: "Not today is right." If East gets on lead with that queen he can play a spade through South's king and the defense can gather in four quick spade tricks. If West gets in with the queen he represents no danger at all so—South simply plays dummy's ace of diamonds just in case the queen might be a singleton.

Oswald: Then he leads a second diamond and finesesses West wins the trick, but is unable to stop South from making his contract.

Magic water level below '71 figure

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir contains 102,000 acre feet of water, Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., said today.

Last year at this time the reservoir contained 136,000 acre feet of water.

The board of directors for the canal company has decided to allow water to run on the Dietrich tract during the winter.

This provision is made with the understanding that water users there provide for watering stock from wells or ponds so that the water can be turned off next year.

Grieve said American Falls Reservoir is almost full, figuring capacity at the lowered 11-foot water surface. A year ago it would have been full. Stockwater from Milner was turned off Dec. 1.

Water going north to north Shoshone and Gooding will be turned off as soon as the Milner Gooding Canal is drained. Stock water for south Gooding like Dietrich tract will be left on this winter with the possibility of turning it off next year.

Farming control lack hit

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Roy L. Holman, Ogden, President of the Utah-Idaho Farmers Union, told members of the Utah Wool Growers Association Friday that agriculture has never been controlled by farmers and stockmen.

"Farmers have never really been in control of their own industry," Holman said. "We have been controlled by the government, consumer, processor, economist and now the ecologist."

But, he said, many farmers and stockmen are getting tired of the controls. Those who haven't lost a third of their paycheck from the loss of lambs should tread lightly when giving distraught sheepmen answers such as "the coyote has a right to life too," he said.

Holman said agriculturists should unite to form a voice capable of being heard in Washington, D.C.

Wyoming nuclear test pattern set

PINEDALE, Wyo. (UPI) — The Wagon Wheel information committee reports the Nevada nuclear tests of sequential firing systems may not be of the same magnitude as that planned in Wyoming.

A statement from the committee quoted Dr. Philip Randolph, of El Paso Natural Gas Co., that there would be two tests, but only two nuclear blasts would be fired sequentially in each test. It said Randolph said information on the magnitude of the blasts is classified at the moment.

"He implied there would be no test of five sequential blasts," the committee statement said.

Project Wagon Wheel would probably utilize five nuclear blasts fired in sequence. El Paso and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) are jointly planning the project to release natural gas under Sublette County.

Mrs. Bernie Gosar said Sen. Cliff Hansen was surprised to find this information out when he attended a recent meeting here. She had invited Hansen to the session.

He thought the test in Nevada would duplicate the Wagon Wheel test in Sublette County but was surprised to find out that it wouldn't, she said.

Earlier this year, Hansen had suggested the AEC that a delegation of Wyoming people be invited to observe the Nevada nuclear tests scheduled next spring.

Pope raps women's lib on abortion

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI took the Women's Liberation movement to task Saturday for what he said are its distorted ideas on the subject of abortion.

The Pope described as "false and alien certain distortions of the movement of feminine emancipation or the movement of so-called sexual liberation."

The 75-year-old Pope was addressing a delegation of Italian jurists who are holding a congress about abortion in Rome.

Abortion, the Pope said, is repugnant "not only to Catholic morality but to the universal human ethic itself."

According to the pontiff, an individual woman cannot decide for herself whether to have an abortion because the rights of the fetus and of society also are at stake.

The Pope said an embryo has juridical rights as an independent person from the very instant of its conception.

The first and most fundamental of the rights of man is the right to life, and the right also to the protection of that life," the Pope said, adding that no person or group could deny these rights.

The more defenseless the subject, the more need there is to protect him, and the more obligation for everyone to protect the mother while she has him in her womb," the Pontiff said.

The Pope said abortion offends human dignity, not only the dignity of the fetus but that of its mother and all doctors and nurses who take part in it. He said the modern state has a duty to protect and promote life in line with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and added "there is no doubt that this protection must begin not at birth or adulthood, but right from conception."

The pontiff said true women's liberation does not lie in "formalistic or materialistic equality with the other sex, but in the recognition of that specific thing in the feminine personality: the vocation of a woman to become a mother."

This vocation, he said, entails rights and duties which amount to a universal human value.

Jurists have a task second to none in defending this universal human value which is the very foundation of life, and at the roots of civilization, not just Christian but simply universally human civilization," the Pope said.

Immediately after his speech, the pontiff met 250 delegates to a meeting of Catholic women's groups, whom he praised for developing moral and civil qualities among Italian womanhood.

In his address to the jurists, the Pope quoted extensively from a speech of Pope Pius XII, who said that a fetus owes its life directly to God, not to its parents, nor to any society or human authority, and that there was no reason whatsoever to take this life away.

Britain asks help on rockets

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath said Saturday Britain has asked the Soviet Union to cooperate in determining the origin of rockets used by the outlawed Irish Republican Army IRA in Ulster.

He told Parliament the request was made by the Foreign Office to the Soviet Embassy.

The embassy was given full details, including details of markings of the rockets. The embassy undertook to report this request. I hope we will have their cooperation in effectively tracking their source," Heath said.

Warren opposes court proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Chief Justice Earl Warren is actively campaigning against creation of a miniature Supreme Court as has been recommended to his successor, Warren E. Burger, it was disclosed Saturday.

The National Observer, a weekly publication, reported Warren has written all 50 of his former law clerks firmly opposing the proposal advocated by a special Burger-appointed committee headed by Harvard Law School Prof. Paul Freund.

The proposal called for establishment of a subordinate panel of U.S. appeals judges who would screen the thousands of applications for Supreme Court review and decide which merited formal consideration by the high tribunal.

The nine justices traditionally have exercised this power on their own and the mini-court idea was aimed at reducing their increasing workload.

National Observer reporter Nina Faleganga wrote in this week's edition that Warren believes the proposal is unconstitutional.

Pioneer picture magazine folds

By H.D. QUIGG
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The managing editor, Ralph Graves, said what everyone there felt: "I thank you all for that gift which we gave to each other."

And: "There is nothing I can do to soften this sad blow."

The blow to the staff members who filled the big Pontine room of the Time & Life building Friday lay not so much in hearing formally of the death of Life—they had known it was sinking fast—but in the feeling that they had helped make something that had been great and now were helpless to stay its passing.

Some were standing, some of the women weeping, one male editor crying. Andrew Heiskell, the tall, urbane board chairman of the parent Time Inc. and an old hand on Life—he was hired six months after it started—was pale, barely audible and seemed near tears as he helped announce the end would come Dec. 29.

With the folding of the pioneering picture magazine 36 years after its amazing birth—people stood in line in the early days at newsstands to get it—the trend in American magazines was going against the old-time general-interest field and toward special-interest; more accurately, specialist-audience magazines.

There had been the fold-up of Liberty, Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Look. Life was the victim of soaring production and distribution costs, of upcoming postal rate increases of 170.2 per cent over five years, of the special-interest trend—but mainly, as the magazine New York said recently, "the victim of a head-on collision with the Mach Truck of television."

Time Inc. management in its announcement of the folding agreed with that. Television incursion into advertising had been the oncoming threat, and still gaining, since the 1950s.

Time Inc., a diversified outfit, has three magazines in good—to-excellent financial shape—Time, Fortune, Sports Illustrated—has just started a new monthly, Money, and has others "on the drawing board."

The tentative titles of these projected ones draw a bead on special audiences: "Camera Month," "View" (television, movies, show business); "Well" (family health).

Hedley Donovan, Time Inc. editor-in-chief, told the death-knell meeting that a range of ploys had been considered to save Life, such as changing its content and making it a fortnightly, but it was finally decided "to fight it out on the line that Life as it had been, and as you were continuing to make it, should be the kind of publication we would offer."

Most of the old-timers on the staff said amen to that. Carl Mydans, who was there from the start and who rose to international fame as a photographer, and a fine writer as well, spoke of the death of an American institution that had a tremendous influence on public imagination.

In an interview, he said: "We created a revolution in communications, producing picture journalism. Never before had people seen this kind of thing. Television did us in—but it uses many of our techniques, story telling, and now it is using more and more stills in its cinema footage."

"The still picture—after all these years you can still see the Spanish soldier hit in midair in the picture Robert Capa did. You can still see the baby abandoned at the Shanghai railroad station after the Japanese bombed it."

"Life led a creation of a new form of journalism that has profoundly affected our generation. If this kind of picture presentation suddenly ceased our society would be affected. What we created is being used every day in television coverage—the picture essay—and in books and other publications."

"Life had an infallible way of hiring talented and exciting people with respect for each other. We were aware of those years that we were creating something important—the thing is that we thought it was important. And when people asked who we were with and we said 'Life' we said it with pride."

Life, of course, spent money like mad sometimes—there is the old observation that it made Winston Churchill a millionaire with its pay for his memoirs—and it printed work of literary giants. But its American pioneering was "photojournalism," a word coined by Henry R. Luce, founder of the Time empire.

That journalism was flourishing—with "candid camera" 35 mm. techniques—in Germany in the late 1920s and early 1930s before Life came along and ran with it. Many of the German practitioners came here and carried on. Alfred Eisenstadt, FritzGoro, Nina Leen, Philippe Halsman.

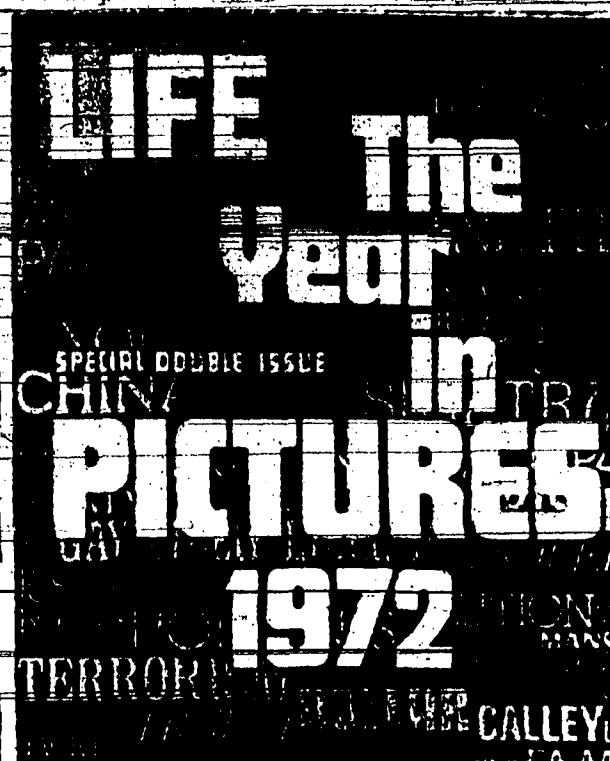

There are several German picture magazines flourishing now. The largest, Stern, has a circulation over 4 million;

Quick has 1.5 million.

Life's birth in 1936 was so auspicious that took followed fast. Suddenly there were a dozen imitations of those two: Quick, Pic, Foto, See... Gone are those visions. The specialty magazines are coming on strong—for intellectuals, women, the young—such as Psychology Today.

On Thursday, the day the Time Inc. executive committee decided Life would end, the Wall Street Journal ran a roundup noting that in the last decade 160 magazines failed or were merged out of existence but that "in the same period, 753 new magazines were born, and that trend, too, is expected to continue."

In the first 10 months of this year, it said, magazines had ad billings of about $1 billion—a record and an increase of nearly $88 million from the first 10 months of 1971.

LIFE magazine, the pioneer weekly in photojournalism, announced it will suspend publication with the year-end issue. At left is the first cover of the magazine which began in 1936 and at right is the cover of the final issue. (UPI)

Yost says revenue repugnant

BOISE (UPI) — A private tax expert says revenue sharing money should be used to reduce taxes.

Max Yost, executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, said such funds—if used properly—could reduce local mill levies significantly in Idaho.

"I'm not suggesting that we use all this money from revenue sharing to lower taxes," Yost told a civic group in Boise Friday.

"I do feel some of the revenue money can and should be used for this purpose, however."

He added that the entire program of revenue sharing has what he called a certain "repugnancy about it."

"Revenue sharing now is a fact and we're going to have to face it," Yost said. "But from my personal point of view, revenue sharing carries with it a modicum of repugnancy."

Japan bikes up

TOKYO (UPI) — Production of bicycles is on the rise in Japan because of a "bicycle movement."

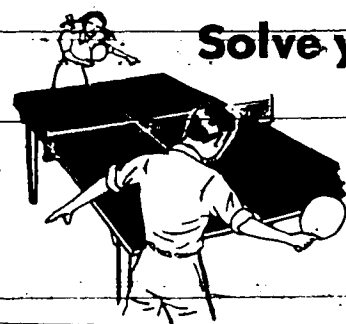

Bicycle output totaled 4,048,000 in 1971, is expected to show an increase to 6.5 million this year and is certain to reach 8 million next year.

Bloody Soviet purges launched during late 1934

Editor's Note: This is the second of eight articles in which the dean of American correspondents in the Soviet Union tells his personal story of four decades of Russian history, as he lived and shared in it.

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW, UPI—The year 1934 dawned bright in the then 17-year-old Soviet Union. It was to end very badly.

The revolution, civil war, famine, the travails of industrialization and collectivization, were largely in the past. The first Five-Year Plan, devised by Western economists, had been fairly successful. The country was embarked on the second Five-Year Plan of whose expected triumphs the delegates sang at their Feb. 17 Communist party Congress which they labelled, "The Congress of Victors."

Economic benefits to the country aside, the principal victor was Josef Stalin who suddenly claimed credit for all the country's successes.

Stalin, despite Lenin's efforts to forestall it, had already managed to outwit all his actual and potential rivals, some of them eminent leaders of the revolution, and had become the unchallenged master of the Kremlin.

Four years earlier, at the 16th Party Congress, few could quarrel with the relatively modest role attributed to Stalin. But now glorification of the leader was boundless. He was "the world's greatest political genius," the "father of all mankind," almost alone he was leading the country from victory to victory to the ultimate glory of Communist society.

Why, I wondered, along with other resident foreign correspondents, such adulation? What purpose did it serve in a planned society?

The Congress was not open to non-Communist correspondents but strange reports, hardly credible at the time, leaked out of the Kremlin Palace. Stalin appeared to have gotten rid of all his rivals but, according to the grapevine, there was a strong movement to eliminate him and replace him with Sergei Kirov, the popular and dynamic leader of the Leningrad party organization.

The Congress, according to reports confirmed after Stalin's death in 1953, greeted Kirov with more enthusiasm than that accorded to Stalin, and elected the younger man to the secretaryship of the Central Committee, a position second only to Stalin's.

It appeared clear then to those who believed in the Stalin-Kirov rivalry that the campaign for the demi-deification of Stalin was a function of that rivalry.

There was little reason to doubt Kirov's mounting popularity; but for reasons never explained he never came to Moscow to take up the secretaryship of the Central Committee. When he did finally come to the capital it was on a special funeral train, for burial on the Red Square. Kirov was killed by an assassin's bullet on Dec. 1, 1934.

The murderer was a young man, Leonid Nikolayev, who had once worked for and been fired from Kirov's secretariat. His act shook the Communist world to its foundations and ushered in one of the bloodiest eras in Russia's tragic history.

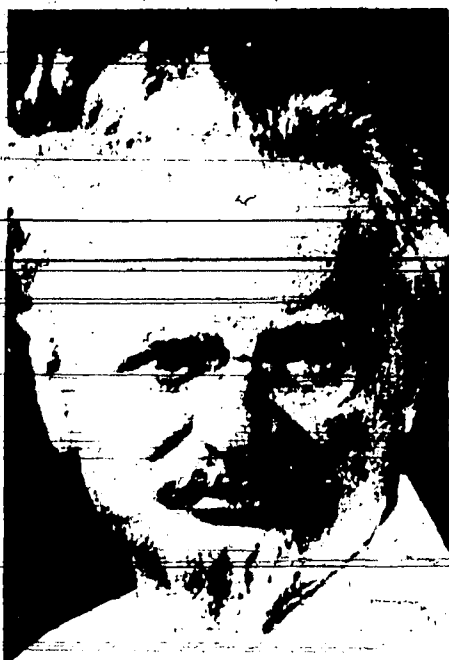

The night of the murder I went to Moscow's Leningrad railroad station to see off some of my colleagues who, optimistic and foolhardy, thought they could investigate the crime on the spot.

The railroad station bristled with guns, militiamen (police-men), soldiers, security guards and plainclothesmen. Only the delighted for anything to help him score another point against his more illustrious predecessor. Khrushchev remained in power eight years after the accusation but the commission failed to come up with any evidence and the investigation eventually was quietly dropped.

LEON TROTSKY
... implicated in plot

magic of our press cards cleared the way to the platform, the reason being Stalin himself. The supreme ruler, accompanied by defense Commissar Marshal Kliment Voroshilov and other members of his politburo, were on the same train to Leningrad.

Leningrad, according to our reports, was virtually in a state of siege. The foreign press could not get within miles of the Smolny Institute which had been Lenin's and later Kirov's headquarters and from where Stalin presided over the investigation.

Where secrecy is a law of life, fantasy knows no frontiers. As a result, many and contradictory versions of the assassination mushroomed.

Nikolayev was unbalanced (as most political assassins in America have been) and committed the crime in the belief, he was performing a patriotic political act.

The act was intended as retribution for a romance Kirov was alleged to have had with Nikolayev's wife.

It was the result of an intrigue by ambitious local security officers.

And even, it was whispered in dark corners, Stalin's hand was involved in removing dangerous rival.

Twenty-one years later, at the 20th Communist Party Congress, Stalin's most famous posthumous foe and successor, Nikita S. Khrushchev, pointing at the mysteries surrounding the Kirov assassination, hinted broadly that Stalin had masterminded it. One of his arguments maintained that all those connected with the affair, the killer himself, the security officials and eye-witnesses, had been summarily liquidated.

Khrushchev even appointed a commission to investigate the case. Hardly an objective reporter, he would have been minister and considered the brains of the Red Army, was among many generals and civil war heroes tried secretly and executed. Also to be tried and executed as the madness went on were other generals, including Marshal Vasil Bluecher, the legendary commander of the Far Eastern forces.

There were only three public trials which a group of foreign correspondents, including me, and ambassadors were permitted to attend.

"I believe everything but the facts," one sardonic British reporter exclaimed as we heard famous revolutionary leaders such as Bukharin, whom Lenin once called "the darling of our party," and other old revolutionaries who had endured Czarist prison and foreign exile, stand up one after another to plead guilty.

The charges were murder, plotting to overthrow the Soviet government, conspiracy with the Nazis to betray the Soviet Union, sabotage and espionage. Once the decision had been made to liquidate the men, most of them old enemies of Stalin, the whole criminal code was thrown at them.

At one of the trials I sat next to U.S. Ambassador Joseph Davies and after the sentences were pronounced I went to his Spasso House residence to discuss with him what we had seen and heard.

Davies had once been a county prosecutor in Wisconsin. I've had plenty of experience with criminal types," he said, "and I know a criminal when I see one." He was convinced he had looked guilt in the face.

Perhaps, I thought, when men of such remarkable intelligence and achievement as some of the defendants we watched have spent a year in jail, are in the dock surrounded by armed guards, and are at the mercy of so crafty a prosecutor as Andrei Vishinsky forcing them to confess to most heinous crimes, they do look like criminals. But thinking of Bukharin's gentle appearance, his finely chiseled face, his blue and

... assassin's victim

liquid eyes and especially his remarkable address to the court in which he mused on the futility of it all—I could not agree with the ambassador. What I did think was that by the rules of the game, some of which the defendants had helped work out and might have applied if the situation had been reversed and Stalin stood in the dock, the Bukharins had never given up the struggle to unseat Stalin. I recalled, too, that early in the struggle for the succession to Lenin, Bukharin had described Stalin as a "Genghis Khan who will slaughter us all."

Some of the defendants were dedicated Communists who, in their own minds, were probably convinced that Stalin was betraying the revolution. They were in the opposition when it was legal and there was no reason to believe they had accepted Stalin when the opposition was outlawed.

That may be why, while most of the purge victims have been exonerated since Stalin's death, those who were tried publicly—Bukharin, Rykov, Radek, Zino-viev, Kamenev, etc.—remain legally unrehabilitated.

"There are no plans to re-examine their cases," Lev Smirnov, president of the USSR Supreme Court, told me recently.

Although in the official view Stalin was correct in seeking to neutralize such oppositionists as Bukharin, Zinoviev, Kamenev and the followers of Trotsky, few will say today that they deserved execution. The charges against them of espionage and sabotage and of plotting to dismember the Soviet Union have been dropped from current history.

Why did those men confess? The most charitable explanation at the time was that the old Bolsheviks, feeling doomed anyway, thought a confession might be their last contribution to a cause for which they had fought all their lives. This hypothesis was persuasively presented in Arthur Koestler's "Darkness at Noon." They also, this theory goes, wanted to show a united stand in face of the Nazi threat.

The climate was too charged with tragedy and grief for any sensitive person to remain unmoved. All foreign residents suffered with the country. One after another our Russian friends and acquaintances disappeared; at best because they wanted to avoid the risk of meeting foreigners, at worst because they were arrested, deported or shot.

Few of the tens, if not hundreds, of thousands of the purge victims were tried publicly. Many were picked up after a dread midnight knock on the door, went through some sort of trial in camera or were summarily convicted by a trio of security officials.

Sub-zero spell end in sight

by United Press International
Idahoans, shivering through a week-long cold spell, are in for some good news, weatherwise, as the National Weather Service says the cold spell may be over by next week.

Weather service meteorological technician James Terry, Boise, said Sunday a break in the cold weather "may come next week to get us out of the sub-zero temperatures."

He said in the next day or so they expected another system through Idaho to produce light snow, and the temperatures will go up.

The Arctic outbreak of cold air came from Canada and "possibly originated" over Russian Siberia and moved across Alaska, he said.

Low temperatures expected through Tuesday are forecast for 15 to 20 degrees below zero in Boise. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the Capital City since records were begun in 1898 occurred Sunday — 23 below zero.

Forecasts call for continued cold weather, under sunny skies, highs 5 to 15 above zero in Southwest Idaho, 10 below to 5 above in Southeast Idaho, and 10 to 20 above in North Idaho.

No serious traffic accidents were reported by State Police Sunday.

Cold weather means use of great amounts of fuel for heating homes, schools and businesses, and three fuel company representatives said Sunday supplies are sufficient for Idaho's current freeze.

Idaho Power Company President Albert Carlsen told UPI his firm has had no electricity shortages, but some outages were experienced due to extreme cold temperatures. He said no supply problems are foreseen, although the electricity demand "is taxing." He added demands are up "substantially."

Intermountain Gas Company General Sales Manager Robert J. McKinney, Boise, said their "interruptible customers" — who buy gas fuel at reduced rates because they are subject to curtailment at peak usage periods — were curtailed as of Friday, and have switched to other fuels, such as oil.

When the peak period is over, he said, these 60 customers — including Idaho State University, the J. R. Simplot plants, and sugar plants — will switch back to natural gas.

He said his company expected to serve all residential customers without problems.

J. Brock O'Leary, owner of Fuel West Company in Boise, said there were no indications of any shortages of heating oil that he knew.

Out storage facilities are under control, he said, noting business is up 30 or 40 per cent of normal for this time of year.

Special meet

JEROME — The Jerome City Council will have a special meeting at 7 p.m. tonight in the city hall.

The special meeting has been called to hear a survey report prepared by JUB Engineers, Inc., Twin Falls, on the city water and sewer facilities. The report is part of a statewide survey which will be presented at a public meeting Dec. 19 by the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association.

The council will also meet with Thomas P. Mahan, chairman of the Jerome County Development Council to discuss the possibility of a planning council being selected as the city's planning agency.

Mahan had suggested earlier to Mayor J. A. (Jack) Russell that the council's land use committee would be an appropriate group to make planning recommendations to the city.

Jerome bids open tonight

JEROME — The Jerome School Board will open bids tonight for the sale of Appleton School. It was decided by the school board earlier this year that it would best serve the school district to sell Appleton School rather than try to maintain it. The school has been closed for several years.

Also the trustees will have to appoint an interim board because of the recent zoning of the school district. Should any of the trustees request not to serve on the board, another patron from the zone will have to be appointed to serve until the school elections next spring.

The agenda calls for consideration of renewal of Supt. John B. Campbell's contract and reports are expected to be presented by Campbell on renting the Ross Lee Ford building for the wrestling team, and by Chairman Gordon Hollifield on the school board association meeting in Boise.

Car smashes SV window

KETCHUM — An undetermined amount of damage resulted Saturday afternoon when a car broke through a window at Sun Valley Motors, Main Street, Ketchum.

According to the Ketchum Police Department, Evelyn Sprague, Ketchum, had left her car across the street from the company about 1:45 p.m. with the engine running.

A department spokesman said the car was either left in park and slipped into reverse or was left in reverse.

The vehicle backed across the street, breaking an eight foot square window, cracking a second window and causing minor damage to a vehicle parked in the building.

No citations were issued in the case.

Accident blamed on ice

SHOSHONE — icy roads accounted for an accident late Saturday just south of Shoshone.

City police said a teenage driver attempted to turn left onto the Dietrich highway from U.S. Highway 93 but was unable to complete the turn on the icy roadway in time to avoid a collision with an oncoming vehicle.

Lloyd Steve Madsen, Burley, was traveling north on U.S. Highway 93 when his vehicle collided with the one operated by Stanley C. Chess, Shoshone. Chess was cited for making an improper left turn. Damage was estimated at $500 to the Chess vehicle and $1,500 to the Madsen auto. There were no injuries.

Burley education priorities listed

BURLEY — Educational priorities for the Burley area were suggested Thursday evening in a meeting of nearly 20 local residents.

The group assembled at Dworshak Elementary School listed construction of a new junior high school in Burley as the top need followed by a renovation of the present high school, to be used by the fifth and sixth grades, providing vocational education facilities and adding an auditorium to the Southwest Elementary School.

The meeting followed similar assemblies in Oakley, Declo and Raft River to determine

Sub-zero temps cause Portneuf River ice jam

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The technology of civilization was unable to keep up with mother nature over the weekend in Pocatello as sub-zero temperatures caused an ice jam in the Portneuf River and subsequent flooding.

The river, which runs through this southeastern Idaho city, was jammed in the Custer Street Bridge area Saturday night in a portion of a three-mile concrete channel built by the Army Corps of Engineers in 1967 to alleviate potential flooding. Six families had to be evacuated from their homes and residents reported three to four inches of water in some basements. No injuries were reported, and damage estimates were not immediately available.

City Manager Charles Moss, who said "flooding of this nature has never occurred before in Pocatello," directed the operation, calling on the local Army Reserve unit, and the National Guard, as well as city water and street crews to help in the emergency.

In the minus 28 degree weather the slow moving water froze in the Portneuf water bed and ice formed, causing stoppage of the flow. The Pocatello area has experienced seven days of freezing temperatures. Sunday the temperature was 25 degrees below zero.

The Custer Street Bridge area became a bottleneck in the ice jam movement, Moss said, and dynamite charges, supplied by the J.R. Simplot Gay Mine, were used to no avail. Wrecking balls managed to knock a hole in the frozen slush and allowed water flow early Sunday.

Water backed up into storm sewers which drain into the concrete channel, causing the flooding which inundated two intersections in the area about 6 p.m. The river level, Moss said, became high enough to spill over into residential sections.

By 4:30 a.m. Sunday pressure was "alleviated" by the hole knocked in the frozen slush to allow water to flow underneath the jam.

Moss said there were no immediate flood threats, but the Guard and Army units and the Red Cross were on standby alert.

Burley bank merger okayed

BURLEY — Final approval in the merger of Burley's Cassia National Bank and the Bank of Idaho came Friday from the Justice Department.

A spokesman for the Bank of Idaho said plans call for construction of a new two or three story bank on the site of the National Hotel near the intersection of Overland Avenue and Main Street. The hotel will be razed.

The Bank of Idaho is scheduled to take over the Cassia system on Jan. 2.

Nile Latta, a marketing vice president for the Bank of Idaho said the new bank should be completed in 1973 with temporary facilities being set up in the Cassia bank's present computer center building until then.

Latta said the Cassia bank controls about 25 per cent of all deposits in the county and, with the Bank of Idaho ranking 34th in the nation in farm loans and earmarking $16 million for that purpose, the new bank will "be an extremely aggressive lender to agriculture."

The Bank of Idaho presently has 15.2 per cent of the deposits in Idaho according to Latta and the Cassia merger will bring its number of state branches to 31.

National Water Users meet aired

SHOSHONE — A report on a national water users meeting held in Salt Lake City recently was given by Reid Newby at the Wood River Center Grange meeting Saturday night.

Newby urged members of the American Falls Reservoir district to write to legislators urging them to promote a new dam as quickly as possible.

Dr. Snyder, Boise, has been consulted by Waldo Jones, legislative committee member, about the brucellosis situation in Lincoln County and asked for a meeting to be held at which he would discuss the problem with local people.

The grange went on record in favor of asking the Idaho Cattlemen's Association to help institute a better program in assuring people they are buying disease free cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Mills were accepted as new members of the grange.

A Christmas party will be held at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the hall.

The money usually spent for adult gift exchange will be used for donation to the Idaho Youth Ranch. Children's gifts are not to exceed one dollar in cost.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cheney and Mr. and Mrs. Newby are Christmas treats committee members and R. B. Kelley will provide a tree.

Fruit cakes will be baked by women and judged at the meeting, then will be used for refreshments.

Mrs. Donald Sandy, women's activity chairman, reported on sale of food at the Ed Farnworth and Homer Solder farm sales.

Report was made that Carlee Ann Jones had won the 4-H camp scholarship provided by the grange, and that Dean Guthrie is convalescing at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Fred McCrea recently injured his back.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barney reported on their trip to Coeur d'Alene to state grange. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sandy.

Placed on probation

TWIN FALLS — Steve Schray was handed a 15-year suspended sentence in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls Friday for first degree burglary.

Judge Theron Ward placed Schray on probation for 12 months. Schray, 18, stands convicted of automobile theft.

SV woman injured in 2-car accident

KETCHUM — A Sun Valley woman received minor injuries in a two car accident Sunday morning at the Steel Bridge south of Ketchum.

Treated for nose cuts and abrasions at Meritt Community Hospital and released was Toni J. Taylor, 26.

According to State Police Officer Gene Bolton, Hailey, the accident occurred about 10:50 a.m. two miles south of Ketchum on U.S. Highway 93. A vehicle driven by Robert L. Vernon, 50, Hailey, was traveling north behind a pickup truck at the time of the accident, Bolton said.

As Vernon started to cross the Steel Bridge, the pickup stopped. Vernon attempted to stop, but icy road conditions caused his vehicle to skid into the southbound lane, colliding head on with the Taylor vehicle, Bolton said.

The pickup truck left the scene of the accident.

Passengers in the Vernon vehicle included Mrs. Robert Vernon, Bill Vernon, and Jan Vernon — all were uninjured.

The Taylor vehicle sustained about $300 damage and the Vernon vehicle received about $500 damage. No citations were issued.

Taxpayers said prompt

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls County are being more prompt this year with their tax payments, Ruth K. Jones, county treasurer and tax collector, said.

Deadline for payment of the first half of the 1972 taxes on real property is Dec. 20. This year Mrs. Jones said she will be collecting $6.5 million total real property tax bill.

Of this, $1,413,762.45 has been collected which is well ahead of the amount received during the first week of December a year ago.

Last year, she said, taxpayers were extremely late in making payments, but this year began paying almost as soon as the books opened and have been making payments at a steady rate since.

Of the total tax bill, utilities will amount to $1.24 million, Mrs. Jones said. Mrs. Jones said the largest utility taxpayer of the county is Idaho Power Co., with a bill of $600,378 while Intermountain Gas pays $102,520 and Mountain States Telephone Co., $271,136.22.

Other county utilities include the Oregon Short Line, Chevron and El Paso Gas and the Filer Mutual Telephone Co.

Mrs. Jones urged taxpayer to keep up the good work and make their payments as soon as possible to facilitate the collection and book work for her staff.

The payments may be made in person at her office on the second floor of the county courthouse or may be mailed.

Those mailed in will receive a receipt by return mail, she said. Mrs. Jones said her office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. week days to receive payments.

The property owners of Twin Falls County received tax notices Nov. 22 with a total of 18,219 notices mailed, an increase of several hundred more than in 1971.

Injuries hamper Jets in Oakland clash

OAKLAND (UPI) — The New York Jets will be hurting when they meet the Oakland Raiders tonight on national television but as long as Joe Namath remains erect they figure they have a chance to keep alive their playoff hopes.

Injuries have left the Jets ground game in shambles for the game they have to win to stay in the running for the AFC "wild card" berth to the playoffs, so all the burden will rest on Namath's massive shoulders when they tangle with the AFC West champ Raiders at the Oakland Coliseum.

Game time is 6 p.m. PST with the usual 54,000 on hand for the first meeting between the two bitter rivals since 1970 in New York when the Raiders snatched a 14-13 victory on a freak catch with one second left.

New York goes into the "must win" contest with a 7-5 record and can stay alive by beating Oakland and setting up next week's game with the Cleveland Browns as the one which decides who goes on to the playoffs. The Browns whipped the Cincinnati Bengals Saturday and are 9-4, but in a season-ending tie situation New York would be the winner.

The Raiders are 4 1/2 point favorites but the spread probably is not long enough when you consider the Jets will be playing without John Riggins, their top runner, and Emerson Boozer, their next best runner, coming back after a leg injury and rusty from two weeks of inactivity.

Also, No. 3 running back Cliff McCain has a busted rib and Steve Harky, another backup running back, has been slowed by an ankle injury.

That leaves New York with only one healthy running back — Hank Bjorklund, a youngster who has carried the ball only eight times this year and for 14 yards.

With the running game, once the best in the AFC, stalled to a trot, Namath, who leads conference passers with 137 completions for 2,413 yards and 18 touchdowns, has to carry most of the offensive load. Another player who might prove valuable is kicker Bobby Howfield, who booted six field goals for all the points in an 18-17 victory last Sunday over New Orleans.

The pass is New York's big weapon and it has helped the Jets to a total offense average of 348 yards per game, in tight end Richard Caster and wide receivers Eddie Bell and Don Maynard. Namath has three fine passing targets and he will need all their talent to get by against the Raiders. Caster has 34 receptions for 733 yards and nine TDs; Bell has 29 for 541 and two scores and Maynard, the 34-year-old veteran, has 625 lifetime receptions and needs only seven more to become pro football's all-time leading receiver.

While the Jets are explosive on offense they are equally porous on defense and rank 11th in the AFC in that department. The passing game is their biggest weakness on defense, so Daryle Lamonica, Oakland's talented quarterback, figures to exploit that weakness as best he can.

Lamonica's statistics aren't as imposing as Namath's but they have been good enough to get the Raiders their fifth division title in the last six years. He has completed 132 passes for 1,742 yards and 15 TDs.

With Marv Hubbard, Charlie Smith and Clarence Davis as the running backs, the Raiders present one of the best balanced offenses in the NFL. Their defense isn't up to previous standards but seems to get better with each game as younger players mature.

Oakland is a well balanced team, said Jets coach Weeb Ewbank. "They have good running, good passing and excellent receivers. If we can put four good quarters of defense together we'll be in good shape, but we have to do something about Oakland's passing. We can't let their quarterback have time to throw or he is liable to run us out of the park."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The U.S. National Wildlife Federation has removed four animals from the list of endangered species in North America during 1972. These species were the gray whale, sea otter, northern elephant seal and Guadalupe fur seal. The World Almanac notes they are native to Pacific Ocean areas between Alaska and Mexico.

Dolphins beat Giants 23-13 for 13-0 mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — The methodical Miami Dolphins, relentlessly moving toward the NFL's first perfect regular season in 30 years, parlayed Paul Warfield's pass catching, an opportunistic defense and three Gary Yepremian field goals Sunday into a 23-13 triumph over the New York Giants.

The victory on the muddy Yankee Stadium turf boosted Miami to a 13-0 record for the season and enabled them to become the fifth NFL team to post 13 wins in the regular season. The Dolphins can wrap up the perfect season and become the first NFL team ever to go 14-0 by beating Baltimore next week.

The 1934 Chicago Bears, who went 13-0, have been the only other team in NFL history to start off with 13 wins. The 1942 Bears finished with an 11-0 mark.

The Giants, who had been eliminated from any chance of a playoff berth on Saturday when Dallas beat Washington, stayed close but blew a chance for an upset when they gave up the ball seven times without anything to show for it. The Giants lost four fumbles, had two passes intercepted and tried a fake field goal which went awry. The Giants also had an extra point blocked.

play was a 34-yard touchdown pass from Morrall to Warfield with three minutes left in the second period. Warfield leaped into the air on the two to catch the pass and then slid across the goal line in the mud and the slop for the touchdown that put the Dolphins ahead, 17-6, and proved to be the difference.

Joe Orduña of New York ran the opening kickoff back to midfield and the Giants marched 50 yards in five plays with Ron Johnson scoring from the 10. But Pete Gogolak's extra point attempt was blocked.

Miami then came back to score 10 points before the Giants ran another offensive play. Morrall, directing an excellent 80-yard drive, passed for first downs to Warfield, Jim Kilick and Jim Mandich and Mercury Morris scooted 12 yards around left end for the touchdown. Yepremian's extra point put Miami ahead to stay, 24-6.

Rocky Thompson fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Charles Leigh recovered on the Giants' 28 to set up a 37-yard field goal by Yepremian that put the Dolphins ahead 10-6 with only five minutes elapsed in the game.

The Giants came right back and marched to the Dolphins'

15, but Vince Clements then fumbled after running to the nine and Doug Swift recovered for Miami. As the rain increased, Yepremian missed a 45-yard field goal attempt and the Giants punted twice before Miami marched 55 yards for the Morrall to Warfield touchdown that gave them a commanding 17-6 lead.

New York came back to score with the help of a pass interference penalty on Dick Anderson in the end zone with Johnson scoring his second TD from the one.

The third quarter was scoreless as the Giants faked a field goal on the Dolphins' 10 and the club's traded pass interceptions.

Yepremian kicked a 31-yarder on the first play of the fourth period that made it 20-13 and New York's bid for the tying touchdown was foiled when Bob Tucker fumbled on an end around play on the Miami 32 and Bob Heinz recovered.

After a Miami fumble recovery on a short punt that hit a Giant, Yepremian's 16-yard field goal with three minutes left wrapped up the win.

Cards player draws penalty

HITTING LOS ANGELES Rams' kicker Dave Chapple (10) just a little late is St. Louis Cardinals' Dale Hackbart (R) who received a roughing the kicker penalty in the first quarter of the Cards-Rams game in St. Louis, Sunday. The Rams retained possession of the ball on the penalty. (UPI Telephoto).

Hart leads St. Louis to upset over Rams

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Jim Hart, starting only his second game of the season at quarterback, passed for 201 yards, including a 40-yard fourth quarter scoring toss to Walker Gillette, Sunday as the St. Louis Cardinals upset Los Angeles 24-14 and knocked the Rams out of contention for a playoff berth.

Nearly half of Hart's passing yardage came in a second quarter pass to Bobby Moore which covered 98 yards. Moore was stopped one yard from the goal line and Donny Anderson took the ball in for the score. The play, the longest from scrimmage without scoring a touchdown in the history of professional football, was set up by a goal line stand by the St. Louis defense.

The Rams had a first down on the St. Louis three-yard line but were unable to score. St. Louis took over on their own one-yard line and on the first play Hart passed to Moore from deep in his own end zone.

The Cardinals led 17-0 at the half, but the Rams scored two third quarter touchdowns and had the momentum before Hart put the game away with the pass to Gillette.

The Rams had two scoring opportunities in the final quarter but both times the St. Louis defense held them at the two-yard line.

St. Louis scored on its first possession of the game on a 41-yard field goal by Jim Bakken.

Just before the half, Norm Thompson picked up a fumble by the Rams' Jim Bertelsen and raced 58 yards for a touchdown. The Rams' two third quarter scores came on an 11-yard pass from Roman Gabriel to Les Stephenson and a 12-yard Gabriel pass to Bertelsen.

Hart hit on seven of 18 pass attempts while Gabriel hit 22 of 36 attempts for 248 yards.

The Rams, fighting to make the playoffs, blew several scoring opportunities. Jack Snow, all alone in the end zone and waiting for the ball, dropped a soft pass from Gabriel and a 13-yard field goal attempt by David Ray hit the goal post one second before the end of the first half.

The win was the first for the Cardinals in the last nine games. Only 36,873 persons, the smallest crowd ever to watch a football game in Busch Stadium, turned out in the bone-chilling weather.

Pasarell defeats Pancho Gonzales

NEW YORK (UPI) — First-seeded Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico recovered from a slow start and beat Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, for the $10,000 first prize Sunday in the $75,000 Clean Air Tennis Classic.

Virginia Wade of England, seeded No. 1, crushed Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3, and earned $6,000 for the women's title.

Gonzales, seeded No. 5, was unable to reach Saturday night's heights when he beat Brian McMillan of South Africa, 6-2, 6-6, 7-6. He rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the tie-breaker game to win that match.

Pasarell, who needed three sets for victories over Sandy Mayer, Haron Hakim and Ove Bengtson, dropped the first set to Gonzales on a break in the third game. The 44-year-old Pancho failed to keep pace in the second set. Pasarell, who took the largest purse of his four-year pro career, got a break in the second game with an overhead and drew even when Gonzales committed three straight double faults in the eighth game.

Packers stop Minnesota, clinch division title

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — MacArthur Lane and John Brockington combined for 213 rushing yards in bitter cold while the Green Bay Packers capitalized on four second-half Minnesota mistakes Sunday to defeat the Vikings 23-7 and clinch the NFC Central Division championship.

The Packers, now 9-4, will meet Eastern Division champion Washington Dec. 24 in a National Football Conference Division playoff game in Washington. It was their first divisional championship since the late Vince Lombardi left Green Bay.

Lane gained 50 yards alone in the third quarter, while Green Bay rookie Willie Buchanan intercepted two Fran Tarkenton passes to rally the Packers from a 7-0 first-half deficit into a 17-7 lead.

Following the second half kickoff, Lane angled 37 yards to the Minnesota 38 to set up a 36-yard Chester Marcol field goal, one of three he kicked in the game.

Two days later, the Vikings' Bill Brown fumbled a pass from Tarkenton at the Minnesota 48 as he was hit by Fred Carr who picked up the ball and returned to the Minnesota 25.

Brockington then went to work, slamming for 19 yards to set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by quarterback Scott Hunter.

Buchanan sealed the Vikings' fate and ended their four-year domination of the Central Division by grabbing a pass which bounced off the chest of Vikings' receiver John Gilliam at the Minnesota 49 and running it back to the 24.

Three plays later, Lane bulled in for a touchdown from the three to make it 17-7.

Buchanan intercepted a Tarkenton-to-Dave Osborn bomb at the Green Bay 18 for Minnesota's third turnover of the quarter. A flurry of Viking penalties, including three as Green Bay tried to punt, helped the Packers run out the clock.

Ken Ellis intercepted a Tarkenton pass to set up one of two Marcol field goals in the waning minutes. His boots of 42 and 10 yards gave him 11 points for the game and 116 for the year as the league's leading scorer.

Minnesota held Green Bay to minus one yards and no first downs in the opening quarter and took advantage of a pass interference call on Ellis on the first play of the second quarter to set up its touchdown. The 39-yard penalty on a third-down pass to John Henderson moved the ball to the Green Bay 22 and the Vikings scored five plays later on a one-yard run by tight end Stu Vont.

Brockington, who now has 1,022 yards for the season, finished with 114 yards, and Lane with 99 in the two degree temperatures.

Colorado Buffs are winning

By CHARLIE SMITH
UPI Sports Writer

Those are strange sounds emanating from Colorado Fieldhouse at Boulder — winning sounds.

The Colorado basketball team, which won only seven of 26 games last year, is off and running to a 3-1 start. And Coach Sox Walseth's Buffaloes haven't been playing the easiest schedule some of the other Big Eight teams have.

The Buffs upended powerful New Mexico State, 87-77, Saturday night and face sixth-ranked Long Beach State tonight in Boulder.

Biggest surprise so far has been freshman Dave Logan, a refugee from the football squad where he was a second-team wide receiver. Logan made his debut against Tulane last Wednesday and scored 18 points in a 97-86 Colorado victory. Saturday night, he scored 20 against New Mexico State.

Colorado's lone loss has been a 77-72 decision to Houston. The Buffs were expected to battle Nebraska and Oklahoma State for the last three rungs in the Big Eight ladder, but so far they've been the surprise team in the league.

Oklahoma (6-0), Missouri (5-0) and Iowa State (3-0) remained unbeaten. The Sooners scored three road victories last week over Samford (Ala.), Stetson (Fla.) and North Carolina-Charlotte.

Missouri, with four victories at home, ventured away from its new fieldhouse Saturday night and outlasted a good Ohio State team, 69-62, in Columbus. Iowa State's victories all have been at home.

Plunkett hurls Pats over New Orleans 17-10

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Jim Plunkett fired two touchdown passes to Reggie Rucker in 47 seconds during the second period Sunday to spark the New England Patriots to a 17-10 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

Plunkett's 31-yard shot to Rucker with 2:12 left in the half climaxed an 88-yard drive. Less than a minute later, he hit Rucker again after tackle Rick Cash recovered an Archie Manning fumble at the Saint 25.

Manning marched the Saints 80 yards to open the second half with the score coming on his 26-yard pass to Danny Abramowicz. But the Saints' offense stalled and the rest of the game settled down to a punting duel.

The Saints did manage a threat to tie late in the game, but Manning bombs to Bob Newland and Dave Parks were both batted away at the goal line. Until Rucker's first scoring catch, the Saints held a three-point lead on the strength of a first quarter field goal of 30 yards by Happy Feller following a 17-yard Manning to Bill Butler touchdown pass nullified by a penalty.

Feller missed an earlier attempt from the 40 and the Patriots stalled on two early drives when Saint safety Hugo Hollas picked off a Plunkett pass and recovered a fumble by Rucker.

In addition to his two extra points, the Patriots' Mike Walker added a 36-yard field goal midway through the third period.

Walker's field goal came after a penalty had also cost the Patriots a touchdown. Reserve quarterback Brian Dowling, scrambling after a bad snap on a field goal attempt, hit Tom Beer for a score that was nullified by an ineligible receiver downfield. The win gave the Patriots a 3-0 American Football Conference record and dropped the Saints to 2-10-1 season mark in the National Football League.

Denver drills

Chargers 38-13

DENVER (UPI) — Charley Johnson threw two touchdown passes to Haven Moses and the Denver Broncos took advantage of constant San Diego mistakes Sunday for a 38-13 American Football Conference Western Division win.

Denver also scored on a one-yard run by Floyd Little, a four-yard jump by Joe Dawkins, and a 65-yard punt return by Charles Greer in the first half, and a 12-yard third-quarter field goal by Jim Turner. Turner also kicked all five extra points.

San Diego, as cold as the seven-degree temperature, had 26 and 48 yard field goals by rookie Bill McClard and a 23-yard scoring toss from John Hadl to Gary Garrison.

Only an estimated 42,000 persons out of 51,478 that purchased tickets to the game braved the chilly weather, but few of the fans left early as they savored Denver's fourth win in 13 outings. San Diego is 4-8-1.

Charger Mike Garrett, who needed 33 yards going into the game to surpass the 1,000 yard mark this season and 50 yards to gain 5,000 yards during his career, picked up 54.

Denver stalled the next time it got the ball. Billy Van Heusen punted to the one-foot line and appeared to put San Diego in the hole but the Chargers, in their only sustained drive of the day, marched to the Denver 19 in 16 plays to set up McClard's 20-yarder in the second quarter.

Douglass leads Chicago to win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Douglass fired a 44-yard strike to tight end Earl Thomas on the one-yard line midway through the third quarter to put the Bears in position for the clincher on a plunge by Roger Lawson.

The quarterback caught the defense off guard and up tight on a third-down-and-one situation on the play, expecting a run after seven consecutive running plays in the drive that started at the Bear 21.

Douglass raced 19 yards for a TD the first time the Bears had the ball, capping a 52-yard drive entirely on the ground. He scrambled 32 yards for the final score with 2:28 left in the game.

The Bears took command in the second half after the Eagles had built a 12-7 halftime lead, with all the Philadelphia points coming as a result of Chicago mistakes.

Starting quarterback John Reaves hit tight end Kent Kramer with a 16-yard scoring strike on the first play after linebacker John Bunting recovered a Douglass fumble. Linebacker Dick Absher intercepted a Douglass pass on the next series to set up a 33-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey that put Philadelphia ahead 10-7 midway through the second quarter.

The Eagles scored on a safety later in the quarter when Bear punter Bobby Joe Green bobbled a center snap in his end zone.

The Eagles threatened twice in the second half, but a pass interception and a fumble spoiled their chances.

Linebacker Ross Brubacher intercepted a pass by back-up quarterback Pete Liske at the Bears' 28 after Liske failed to see receiver Harold Jackson wide open at the opposite side of the field. Liske later left the game with an injury, and quarterback Rick Arrington fumbled on his first play at the Bears' 11.

Douglass, who completed only one of nine passes, rushed for 75 yards, and Cyril Pinder carried for 86.

The victory was the Bears' fourth against seven losses and a tie. The loss was the Eagles' 10th against two victories and a tie and marked the first time since 1942 that they have gone strike on the first play after an entire season without winning at home.

Lions rally for tie with Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Greg Landry threw a 31-yard touchdown pass with just over two minutes left Sunday to give the Detroit Lions a 21-21 tie with the upset minded Buffalo Bills.

The Lions had to have a victory to stay alive for the Central Division title in the National Football Conference. The tie eliminated them from any contention.

The Bills had taken a 21-14 lead in the fourth quarter on Dennis Shaw's third touchdown pass of the afternoon, but Landry tossed a 37-yard scoring pass to Ron Jessie to tie it up with just over two minutes left.

The pass to Jessie was Landry's third TD toss and culminated a 73-yard drive.

Shaw had put the Bills ahead on a three-yard pass to Jan White at 8:22 of the final quarter.

Detroit missed on three field goal attempts and Buffalo on two. A Buffalo drive was stopped by a fumble late in the first half.

The Bills went ahead 14-7 in the first quarter on a 39-yard touchdown pass from Shaw to Bob Chandler.

But Detroit tied it up at 7:58 of the third quarter when Landry hit Nick Eddy for 36 yards. That touchdown was set up after Linzy Cole fumbled a Detroit punt and the Lion's Craig Cotton recovered. The TD pass came on the first play after the fumble.

Shaw threw a 58-yard scoring pass in the second quarter to tie it up at 7-7, culminating a 53-yard Buffalo drive. Landry's nine-yard pass to Earl McCullough gave Detroit its first TD at 6:48 of the first quarter.

Buffalo was threatening to score late in the first half but O.J. Simpson fumbled on the Detroit two and the ball was recovered by the Lions' Jim Mitchell with only seconds left.

Fans rushed onto the field to tear down the goal posts after the game, which was the last to be played at the 36-year-old War Memorial Stadium. A new stadium in suburban Buffalo is to be constructed before the next season.

Bradshaw's agony

GRIMACING IN PAIN is Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw as he is being worked on by the team doctor. Bradshaw dislocated some fingers on his passing hand late in the second quarter in Houston. Sunday, in a game against the Oilers. Pittsburgh won the game. (UPI Telephoto).

Gerela kicks Pittsburgh into conference playoff

HOUSTON (UPI) — Roy Gerela, acquired for a bargain price of $100 last year, kicked the Pittsburgh Steelers into the American Conference playoffs and at least a tie for the Central Division title Sunday with a 9-3 victory over the punchless Houston Oilers.

Gerela, picked up from the Oilers last season, kicked field goals of 39, 24 and 13 yards to rescue a sputtering Steeler offense hampered by the loss of quarterback Terry Bradshaw in the second quarter.

Bradshaw suffered a dislocation of the third finger on his throwing hand when he was hit by Elvin Bethea in the second quarter. The game was tied 3-3 at the time on the strength of Skip Butler's 34-yard field goal for the Oilers.

Joe Gilliam, a rookie quarterback from Tennessee State who had played only seven minutes all season, took over for Bradshaw and guided Pittsburgh 39 yards to the point of Gerela's 39-yard field goal midway in the third quarter. A Steeler spokesman said Bradshaw possibly could have played the second half, but was held out as a precautionary measure.

Gerela's third field goal came only six plays after his second one. The Steelers' Joe Greene stripped Houston's Fred Willis from the ball and recovered it on the Houston 13 on the first play after the kickoff after the second field goal.

Gerela's field goal gave him 27 for the season, a club record, and a Steeler record of 113 points.

Gerela also took over the AFC scoring lead.

The victory ran the Steelers' record to 10-3, the first time they've won 10 games in their 40-year history, and clinched a tie for the division crown with the Cleveland Browns going into the final week of the season.

The Steelers need a victory at San Diego next week to win the title outright.

The loss was the Oilers' 10th in a row and dropped their record to 1-12, assuring them the No. 1 pick in this winter's college draft.

Franco Harris, the Steeler's rookie running back sensation, gained only 61 yards in 21 carries, ending his streak of 100-yard games at six. He had a chance to break Jim Brown's all time National Football League record if he had gained 100 yards against the Oilers.

49ers shutout Falcons 20-0, near west title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —

Ken Willard scored a half of touchdowns on one yard runs late in the game after Bruce Gossett had booted a pair of first half field goals Sunday to give the San Francisco 49ers a 20-0 victory over the Atlanta Falcons and move them to within a victory of their third consecutive NFC West title.

Gossett's field goals of 41 and 19 yards turned out to be all the points the 49ers needed and Willard's two TD's put the game away as San Francisco registered its seventh victory compared to five losses and a tie.

That left the 49ers needing a triumph over the Minnesota Vikings Saturday to lock up the title.

The loss dropped Atlanta to 7-6 and the only way the Falcons now can win the NFC West is by beating Kansas City next week provided San Francisco losses to Minnesota, Los Angeles, which lost to St. Louis and is 6-6-1, still has a mathematical chance, too.

It marked the first shutout of the year for the San Francisco defense while Atlanta failed to score a point for the first time since losing to Dallas, 13-0, in its fourth game of the 1970 season.

The Falcons had only three chances to score Sunday. The first opportunity came in the opening period but Bill Ball missed a field goal try from the 12. In the second quarter, with San Francisco ahead 6-0, middle linebacker Frank Nun-key blocked Ball's field goal try from the 28 and the Falcons made one more attempt in the early minutes of the fourth quarter.

In that drive, quarterback Bob Berry moved Atlanta from its own 34 to the San Francisco five, but his try with a pass on fourth down went incomplete.

The San Francisco defense forced three Atlanta fumbles and sacked Berry four times.

Art Malone, who later set a club record with his 46th pass reception, fumbled early in the first quarter after running 27 yards to the 50. Mel Phillips recovered for San Francisco, and six plays later, Gossett booted his first field goal.

Then, in a second quarter drive that covered 87 yards in 9 minutes and 33 seconds, Gossett came on to boot his second field goal.

Steve Spurrier, directing a San Francisco attack that rolled for 210 yards on the ground, the club's best showing this year, converted twice on key third down situations and Willard punched over from the one with 4:52 remaining for a 13-0 edge.

Berry fumbled the next time the Falcons got the ball, and Bob Hoskins recovered at the 20. Five plays later Willard went in again from the one to wrap it up.

Chiefs outlast Colts 24-10

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) —

Len Dawson hooked up with Ollis Taylor on a 25-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter Sunday and the Kansas City Chiefs held on for a 24-10 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

The Chiefs bolted 66 yards in nine plays after the second-half kickoff, breaking a 10-10 deadlock.

Dawson passed 12 and nine yards to Wendell Hayes before Ed Podolak ran five yards for a first down at the Baltimore 25. From there, Dawson flipped to Taylor on a crossing pattern over the middle and the big flanker galloped into the end zone, barely eluding cornerback Charlie Stukes at the flag.

The victory in 17-degree temperature lifted Kansas City's record to 7-6, while the Colts fell to 5-8, ending a three-game winning streak.

The Chiefs drove 89 yards in 17 plays, starting with 10:20 to play, to score the clinching touchdown with 51 seconds remaining in the game. Podolak scored the touchdown from five yards out on a sweep.

Kansas City scored first when the Chiefs marched 47 yards to the Baltimore 23, primarily on the running of Hayes, and Jan Stenerud kicked a 31-yard field goal with 5:18 to play in the first quarter.

The Colts evened the score after Randy Edmunds blocked a Jerrel Wilson punt and John Mosier dropped on the loose ball at the Kansas City 20. Baltimore could not make a first down and Jim O'Brien kicked a 22-yard field goal early in the second quarter.

Baltimore marched 88 yards to a touchdown on its next possession. The big play was a 43-yard strike from Marty Domres to O'Brien. Two penalties helped move the ball to the Chiefs' five and Domres threw a touchdown pass to tight end Tom Mitchell from there.

Kansas City got a fumble by Jerry Logan on a punt return, with Wilson recovering at the Colts' 23 to setup the tying touchdown. Dawson passed 13 yards to Hayes for the score 45 seconds before halftime.

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa State football Coach Johnny Majors, whose name has been circulated for several coaching vacancies across the nation, was victimized by a prankster over the weekend who evidently believes the Cyclone coach is leaving for another job.

A "For Sale" sign belonging to a real estate firm was in the front yard of the Majors residence Saturday, but has since been removed. The firm denied it had Majors' home up for sale, but admitted that one of its signs was missing.

Speculation increased last week that Majors was leaving the Big Eight school, with reports indicating he was a top choice for coaching vacancies at Southern Methodist and Michigan State.

However, Majors, whose ISU team meets Georgia Tech Dec. 10 in the Liberty Bowl, has declined comment on the rumors.

Losing is especially tough on George Allen

DALLAS (UPI) — Nobody enjoys losing, but it is quite possible that nobody enjoys losing less than George Allen.

And, after his Washington Redskins' rally fell short against the Dallas Cowboys Saturday, Allen did not try to hide how he felt.

"It's not good to lose after winning nine straight," Allen said after his club lost 34-24 to the defending world champions. "That's no fun losing after you've been winning. It's no damn fun losing."

But lose they did, without the talents of Larry Brown being displayed, and now that they have, what effect will it have on the Redskins going into the National Football League playoffs?

Allen had some sharp remarks on that subject, too. "Since we lost, we don't have momentum," he said. "The hell with momentum! There's too much talk about momentum."

It's a cliché passed on and on and on.

If you have been around football long, you know that game could have gone the other way in the second half. We had them on the ropes. But we just gave up the football.

The Dallas-Washington contest was typical of the type of game Dallas has played often this year. Everything Dallas did during the first half was right and it amounted to a 28-3 lead.

And everything Washington did in the second half was right almost.

Both clubs will go into the Super Bowl playoffs, with Dallas meeting the Western Division winner in the NFC and Washington playing the Central Division champ. Wins by both clubs would bring them together again Dec. 31 in Washington for the NFC championship.

You have to give them credit," Allen said of the Dallas effort in the first half.

They came to play the first half. They blocked us, knocked us down, ran around us and everything else. They did a fine job — their offensive team was exceptionally fine.

For the Cowboys, despite their letdown in the second half, there were a lot of plus factors and one huge minus factor.

The minus was the loss of veteran linebacker Chuck Howley, who had ligaments in his left knee torn by a crackback block and underwent surgery

Saturday night.

The pluses came from the fact Dallas turned the ball over only once and from the rushing talents displayed by Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison.

Hill gained 111 yards Saturday to give him 1,010 for the season, becoming the first player in Cowboy history to gain 1,000 yards. Garrison had his career high performance of 121 yards, thus making it the first time two Dallas runners have gained 100 yards in the same game.

"We didn't trounce them, but we got a win," said middle linebacker Leroy Jordan. "All we've needed is some improvement and we got some of it against Washington."

In the last two or three weeks, we've been more excited. The offense and defense have both improved, but we'll be better still two weeks from now.

It's an established fact that blacks are more susceptible to frostbite than are whites. NO, THAT extremely swift beast known as the fisher doesn't go fishing, ever. OUR PROPER JOB CLUB secretary lists Helen Flatt and Sydney Sharp as onetime members of the Memphis Opera Theater. OLDEST PURE BREED of cat is the Abyssinian. Youngest, the Rex. CONFIRMED ALSO is the claim that professional bass players and drummers do indeed tend to become moderately hard of hearing.

IT IS THE MAN in the construction business who is apt to switch jobs most often, that's widely known. Recent studies confirm it. But they show the salesman and the barber run a close second and third among the job switchers. It's still true the average working man, whatever his age, stays on one job only 1.9 years.

FATHERS IN WAITING

In the waiting room for expectant fathers at a San Francisco hospital, I'm told, hangs a small hand-lettered sign which reads: "There are 1,035 holes in each tile, 510 squares in each light, 16 screws in each fixture."

HORSE RACING, that's the No. 1 sport, some say. Because more people pay money to see the ponies run than to watch any other game. No, football, that's the No. 1 sport, others contend. Because more people follow it on television. Not so, swimming is the No. 1 sport, many claim. Because more people participate in it. Take your pick, sir.

WHAT'S SHOPLIFTED in the month of December averages out at $7 per item. That's overall. But what's shoplifted in the month of December by store guards averages out at $25 per item, studies show.

THE CLEAN ARMADILLO

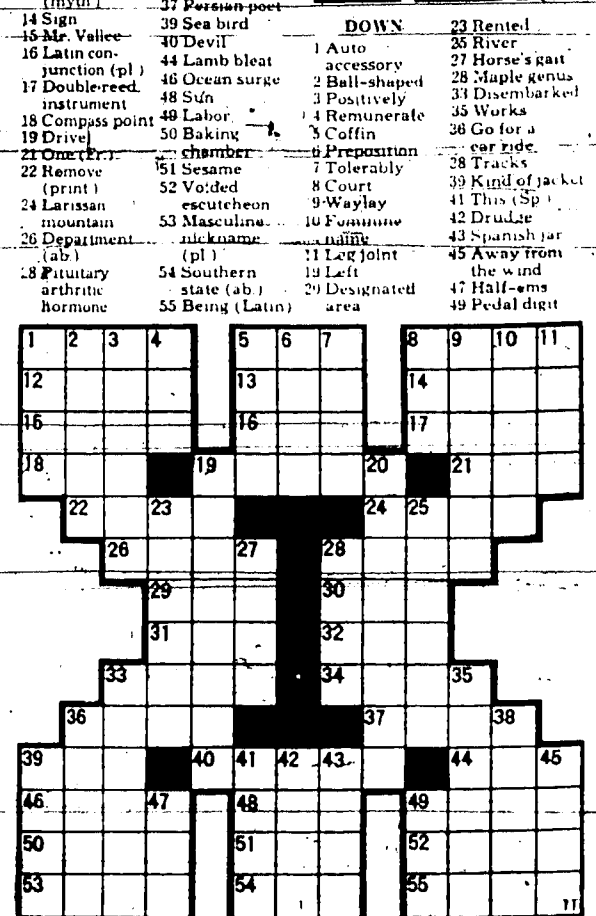

Q "Can an armadillo be housebroken?"
A Can, indeed. Feed an armadillo one meal a day, about 9 p.m., treat it right, and it'll turn into a dandy affectionate pet.

YES, THAT DOG PERFUME, known as Kennel No. 9, is on sale in a New York sporting goods shop again this year. This leaps to mind because a client asks if I ever acquired another dog since the sad departure of old Smoky. Certainly did. Three dogs, in fact. A couple of dalmatians, named Barney and Ben, with looks. And a border collie, named Molly, with brains. As for the notion any of these three superior beasts might wear perfume, no, not soon. The lady friend and I have not yet tobogganed down to such a depth of senility. Maybe later.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite recent penetration of the sacred 1000 barrier of the Dow Jones industrial average, the peak still lies ahead, according to the International Business and Investment Service. The trend will be less uniform and there should be more concentration on current values, the firm says. Sound tested equities still provide excellent profit opportunities.

Standard & Poor's Corp. says some tax-loss selling may lie ahead, but the consolidation that has been taking place would seem to be putting the market in a good position for a year-end rally. "We would favor the extension of new commitments," commending particular attention to reasonably valued issues with clearly defined earnings prospects, the company adds.

The investment community's fondness for cyclical-growth situations which, according to Spear and Staff, Inc., picked up the standard of the bull market dropped by wounded growth stocks last summer—is based on expectations the business recovery will continue next year.

E. F. Hutton & Co., Inc., says from a technical standpoint, the fault can be found with the market's performance. Interestingly enough, the market is not even technically overbought at this juncture so a further advance can easily be sustained, the firm adds.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You need Anacin. Consider this: more of the pain reliever doctors recommend more than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved instantly. Fast, minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours, even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain can be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Children keep busy

CHILDREN OF astronauts find life goes on as usual while their fathers are preparing for moon landing. Here the children find recreational outlets with motorcycling or the family pet cat between news reports on the final moon shot.

Lady from Mars not too impressed on moon trip

The lady from Mars doesn't think much of man's last trip to the moon in the foreseeable future.

Mrs. Virginia Barto of Mars, Pa., didn't bother to stay up to see Apollo 17 lift off Wednesday night. She doesn't care much if she ever sees another moon shot.

"Certainly I'm proud we went to the moon," she said. "But really, to keep going back is a waste of money. All the money they have spent on the other moon shots could well have been used here on Earth to cut taxes."

The Earth lady still gets excited over the moon visits. But she tends to agree with many others that enough is enough.

Mrs. Homer Starkey of Earth, Tex., said, "The first time they went to the moon it was really fantastic and I was proud. But I have to admit I was skeptical they could make it. I don't think God really wanted us to mess around with the moon."

"It kept me up three hours the other night. I got my husband, Homer, out of bed to watch it. He wanted to sleep, I think, but he needed to see it. "I can't really see what we're going to accomplish up there. I read somewhere that whoever controls space, controls the world. Well, I don't see why that's all so 'blamed' important. Let Russia have the moon if they want it. I think we have too much poverty in the United States. If we're going to spend money, let's spend it here in the country, not on some moon trip."

Mrs. Barto and Mrs. Starkey were only slightly out of line with the consensus of 37 Americans interviewed by United Press International reporters in 25 cities and towns on how they feel about the program which is sending the Apollo 17 astronauts streaking toward the moon.

Most recalled how proud and excited they felt when Neil Armstrong stepped upon the moon and announced a small step for a man but a great step for mankind. But a great many were wondering whether this particular trip is necessary.

A substantial number backed the idea that at least some if not all of the billions poured into the space program should more properly have been spent buying some happiness on Earth.

Cyclist seeking damages

TWIN FALLS — Elmer Cook has filed suit in Fifth District Court for recovery of damages suffered in an automobile-cyclist collision on June 9, 1972.

Cook has named Sally Joanne Carter and Marie Brooks as defendants in the suit, alleging negligence when his motorcycle was struck by the Brooks vehicle at the intersection of US 30 and US 93.

Sally Carter is said to have been driving the car at the time of the accident.

Cook is seeking the following costs: medical expenses, $3,790; lost wages and future earnings, $26,000; general damages, $25,000; replacement of motorcycle, $750; costs of suit and such other relief as the court deems proper.

TF party held by artists

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Literary Art Guild held its annual Christmas party at the Blue Lakes County Club Friday. Husbands were special guests of members.

A prime beef rib dinner was served for the occasion. Special decorations included bright red tablecloths and centerpieces composed of tall gold candles surrounded by holly, evergreen, small red apples and gold foil roses.

Booklets containing verses by Helen Steiner Rice were presented as favors. Fun gifts were presented to all those in attendance from His and Her Santa Claus bags.

Program chairman for the event was Mrs. Glenn Taggett. Hostesses were Mrs. Leonard Mauss and Mrs. Larry Christensen.

The club will hold its next meeting on Feb. 8 at the Bernell Skinner residence.

TF man sentenced on funds

TWIN FALLS — Charles Cox received a suspended sentence of three years and a 12 money probation Friday in Fifth District Court for writing insufficient fund checks.

Cox, 31, Twin Falls, was also ordered as a condition of probation to make restitution for the approximately $500 in insufficient funds checks he had written.

When a recipe calls for 1 tablespoon of unflavored gelatin, use 1 packet of it. That amount will get 2 cups, or 1 pint, of liquid.
